POLICE HUNT TERRIFIED KIDNAP SLAYER

Airplane Crash Claims Life Of Martin Johnson

Explorer Succumbs to Injuries Suffered When Transport Struck Mountainside 29 Miles North of Los Angeles; J. A. Braden of Cleveland Also Victim

Eleven Others Hurt in Mishap

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Jan. 13.—Martin Johnson, noted explorer, died today of injuries suffered in yesterday's Western Air Express transport crash, the second fatality among the thirteen persons aboard the ill-fated airliner.

The big game hunter had suffered a concussion, fractures of both legs, multiple fractures of both jaws, fracture of the nose and severe shock. He was brought to the Good Samaritan Hospital early today after receiving emergency treatment last night in a ranger lookout station 200 yards from where the Salt Lake City-Los Angeles airliner crashed.

OTHER VICTIM CRUSHED
James A. Braden, president of the Cleveland, Ohio, Ink Company, was crushed to death between two seats when the two-motored plane was wrecked on a fog-shrouded mountainside fifteen miles from the Union Air Terminal, its destination at Burbank or a flight from Salt Lake City. The scene of the wreck is twenty-nine miles north of Los Angeles.

Copilot Clifford P. Owens and A. L. Loomis of Omaha, Neb., a passenger, were critically hurt but none of those riding in the big all-metal craft escaped without some injury.

Mrs. Q. A. Johnson, the explorer's wife, suffered concussion and a fracture of the right knee.

Others in the plane were D. E. Spencer, Miss L. James, H. Hules, T. Tillinghast, S. Robinson, A. L. Loomis and R. T. Anderson.

FILED TO LECTURE

The Johnsons were to have appeared at the Pasadena civic auditorium in an illustrated lecture on Borneo. After sponsors learned of their injury, 3,250 ticket purchasers were given refunds.

The first words spoken by Mrs. Johnson when she recovered from the shock of the forced landing on the 2,600-foot mountain ridge were: "Where's my husband? Is he badly hurt?"

Debate At Ottawa On Throne Change

C.C.F. Leader Asks For Copies of All Correspondence Between Premier King and British Government; Session Will Be Opened Tomorrow

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Action of the federal government in approving the change in the succession to the throne by order-in-council without calling Parliament will be criticized by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation at the session of Parliament which will be opened tomorrow.

The C.C.F. also will oppose expansion of Canada's military or naval defenses and a foreign policy will be proposed which advocates strict neutrality for the Dominion in event of war, as well as prohibition of profits from trafficking in munitions.

ASKS FOR PAPERS

Arriving here today for the opening ceremonies tomorrow, J. S. Woodsworth, member of the House for Winnipeg North Centre and head of the party, said he would move for production of all papers and correspondence between London and Ottawa respecting the abdication of King Edward VIII and accession of King George VI.

"Prime Minister King has indicated he will seek ratification from Parliament of the government's acts respecting the change to the succession," said Mr. Woodsworth. "If he was right in the first place, why does he need ratification?"

E. A. SIMPSON SUES WOMAN

Society Matron of London Said He Received Money at Time of Divorce

Associated Press

London, Jan. 13.—Ernest Aldrich Simpson, former husband of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, has filed a slander suit against Mrs. Joan Sutherland, alleging she said Simpson received a sum of money in connection with his wife's divorce, it was learned today.

Mrs. Sutherland is the wife of Lieut.-Col. A. H. C. Sutherland. Simpson declined to discuss the case except to confirm that notice of the suit had been issued and served on Mrs. Sutherland.

The suit, sources close to Simpson said, was the result of Simpson's efforts to quiet talk of his divorce and alleged payment of money which arose after the decree nisi was issued to his wife at Ipswich, October 27.

DISCUSSED IN MAYFAIR
Simpson was declared to have been irritated by discussion in both the London financial district and in Mayfair.

The action was based on alleged remarks made by Mrs. Sutherland at a luncheon party in London, it was said, after the abdication of King Edward VIII.

Simpson's friends at the luncheon repeated the asserted statements to him, informed sources declared, and furnished the evidence which the former husband placed before his lawyers.

Mrs. Sutherland was described as a young society matron. Her husband is now enroute to India. He served in the famous Black Watch Regiment during the Great War.

Germans Free Spanish Crew

Canadian Press From Havana
Madrid, Jan. 13.—Dispatches from Gijón declared today that German cruiser Koenigsberg had freed the crew of the captured Spanish government ship Maria Junquera, one of those seized in retaliation for refusal of Basque authorities to return a passenger and part of the cargo of the German freighter Palos.

New French-Reich Treaty Is Planned

As Tension Over Morocco Dies Down World Informed Friendly Trade Negotiations Under Way

Associated Press

Berlin, Jan. 13.—A government communiqué officially announced today negotiations were under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France.

The announcement, first official confirmation of a rapprochement move between the two countries whose relations had been strained over the Spanish civil war, also stated Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Minister of Economic Affairs, had cancelled his scheduled trip to Paris January 16.

Dr. Schacht, who was to open the German building at the Paris exposition, notified the German commissioner for the exposition his duties in Berlin were too heavy to allow him to be absent.

EXPERTS TO CONFER

The communiqué added: "German-French negotiations for a trade treaty for the present will be conducted by departmental experts."

The statement said Dr. Schacht had decided eight days ago not to make the trip to Paris.

German morning newspapers reported the excellent impression the proposed visit had made.

WEATHERMAN SEES SNOW

Three Or Four Inches May Fall Tonight; Much Snow in Vancouver

Fresh to strong north to north-east winds, becoming colder and probably "some snow," was the weather forecast given out this morning by W. A. Thorn, superintendent at the Meteorological Observatory atop Gonzales Hill.

Victorians greeted light rain and a brief return to milder weather with delight yesterday, evening, but were sorry to see this morning that light snow and sleet had fallen during the night, in accordance with yesterday's weather forecast.

A northeast wind will probably bring snow to Victoria overnight, and Mr. Thorn said he would not be surprised to see three or four inches over the city tomorrow morning.

Vancouver this morning at 5 o'clock reported five inches, with snow still falling.

Victoria's minimum temperature this morning on the standard screen at Gonzales was 33 degrees, although it was freezing on the ground.

Rain and sleet yesterday evening spoiled the skating at Beacon Hill and on the ponds and flats in outlying sections of the city.

WORKMEN CLEAR SNOW

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Gangs of workmen were busy clearing Vancouver's streets today following the heaviest snowstorm of the winter, five inches having fallen since 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Light snow was general over the lower part of British Columbia, the storm apparently centring here. Victoria had only sleet, but snow was expected there tonight.

Milder temperatures were recorded here, the lowest reading in the past twenty-four hours being twenty-nine above and the highest thirty-two above.

PRAIRIE BLIZZARD

Winnipeg, Jan. 13.—A blizzard whipped across parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta today as the weatherman forecast decidedly colder temperatures for tomorrow, with Manitoba due for a touch of conditions prevailing in other prairie provinces.

The blizzard blanketed most of Alberta, with temperatures ranging from ten below zero at Edmonton to two above at Medicine Hat. In the south, Northern Saskatchewan registered temperatures well below zero, with blizzards reported from Saskatoon and Prince Albert.

Leacock Gives Some Advice To Victoria

Commercial Greatness Just a Dream He Says; Island Meant As a Place Not to Work But to Live; If on Atlantic There Wouldn't Be Standing Room on it; Doesn't Like Liquor Laws Here

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

This Vancouver Island and particularly the environs of Victoria seem to me the last word in charm of scenery and climate. As between Vancouver City and Victoria there never ought to be any rivalry or conflict of interest. Vancouver is destined to be in less than no time, one of the great cities of the world. The increasing commerce of the Pacific, the increasing economic importance of the Panama Canal and its own increasing trade as the all-the-year round sea-port of one half of Canada, will carry it forward in the next two decades to ranks second only to Montreal.

For Victoria, commercial greatness is just a dream. Ships won't stop when they can still go on. Manufacture clings to the mainland everywhere. But Victoria and Vancouver Island don't need commerce in the "low-down" sense. They are born for better things as a place not to work but to LIVE.

Ploot the island round, climate and all, to the east side of America, and there wouldn't be standing room on it. Ploot it up the St. Lawrence in February and enough of us would crowd on it to sink it.

But it's a place to live, a place for retired soldiers and young people in the dawn of marriage too happy to live elsewhere, and for "TIRED" business men to visit in the brief spells when the business man, being "tired," becomes human.

But it should not be made merely the playground of the rich. That is no good. It should be also the home of the poor—an island where people of modest but certain means can set up on a little place of a few acres and a share of the sea and count the world well lost. These include some of the best people in the Empire—the younger sons who made it what it is. But in Canada we have been killing cheapness, pandering to luxury, stimulating desires and over-doing comfort. I almost wish we could get back to horses and buggies, candlelight, overcoats that lasted ten years, and a dress suit bought once in a lifetime.

Only one small point of criticism I cannot bear to omit—side atrocious liquor laws, which treat harmless people like myself as criminals, herd people into "private rooms" to buy a drink as if a drink were a sin, encourage hotels to serve meals rich enough and elaborate enough for six, and never a glass of claret or a tankard of beer to wash it down with.

I don't want to get mad about it—especially as British Columbia shares the fault with seven other provinces—but to my mind a plain English "pub" with a cut of roast beef and a pot of beer, or a little French wayside inn with a brook trout and a bottle of wine made right there from the vineyard, is a better place to eat than all our new apparatus of luxury and travel can supply.

Still, I repeat, I mustn't get mad over it. And, anyway, it will change. The place is too good to spoil.

High-powered Radio Station Planned to Link Up the Empire

British Commonwealth Waiting For Canada's Initiative, Says W. E. Gladstone Murray, Explaining Proposals For Fifty-kilowatt Plant; Victoria to Get Place in National Network

Canada will be linked by radio with the countries comprising the British Commonwealth of Nations under the policy of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which proposes to establish for the purpose a high-powered short-wave transmitter of fifty kilowatts, it was announced by W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the C.B.C., following his arrival in Victoria last night on his investigation tour.

"The whole Empire is waiting for Canada's initiative," he said in telling of C.B.C. plans. "Our aim is to link up Canada with the Empire and the world."

Just where the high-powered transmitter would be located, Mr. Murray was unable to disclose. It did not necessarily follow that such a station would have to be on a centrally-located site.

The proposed station would be equal to the majority of the high-powered plants operating in the United States. Its design and reach would be based along the lines of the Daventry station of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Stolen Car Examined In Everett As G-Men Trace Ex-California Convict

FINGERPRINTS ARE CHECKED

Folsom, Cal., Warden Says F. O. Haynes Not Now in That Prison

Associated Press

Folsom, Cal., Jan. 13.—Folsom prison authorities received word today that federal officials are seeking Fred Orrin Haynes, former two-time convict, in connection with the Mattson kidnapping.

The nature of the evidence pointing toward Haynes was not disclosed, but it was stated the criminal identification bureau at Sacramento had been asked to check on Haynes's fingerprints.

The state bureau of criminal identification admitted it had been requested to check on the fingerprints of Haynes, but declined to reveal any other information without the permission of the Department of Justice.

GAVE RECORD

Warden Clarence A. Larkin said requests to the prison for information about Haynes had come from unofficial sources and that he had revealed Haynes's record before he was informed it was wanted in connection with the kidnapping.

Reports received from San Francisco that Haynes was back in Folsom prison under the name of Smith were laughed at by Larkin. He said he knew both the Smith referred to and Haynes personally.

Lone Man Robs Bank in Tacoma

Armed Bandit Escapes With $1,500 After Ten-mile Auto Chase

Associated Press

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 13.—Waiting a large revolver, a lone unmasked man held up the Lincoln branch of the Puget Sound National Bank today and escaped with $1,500 in silver and currency.

The man forced employees of the bank into the vault, but neglected to lock them in.

Traveling in what was believed to be a stolen automobile, he fled southward out of the city, closely pursued by Manager Charles W. Greening and Cashier R. S. Coulter.

SEVERAL SHOTS

Coulter emptied a rifle at the automobile several times without apparent effect. The two bank employees were forced to give up the chase near Spanaway, some ten miles south of the bank, when they ran out of ammunition.

The hold-up bandit seized a sack containing $1,000 in currency and a package of $500 in silver from the bank vault.

Definite assurances that Victoria would get proper representation on the national network was given by W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to a delegation which waited upon him at the Empress Hotel this morning seeking better radio facilities for Victoria.

The delegation was composed of Harold Husband, president of the Chamber of Commerce; H. M. McGovern, president of the Victoria Liberal Association; Tom Watkins, Leslie Osborne, Warren Martin, Walter Miles, R. W. Fairclough, F. H. Partidge and William O. Findlay, representing the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is actively sponsoring the campaign for a new radio station here.

Victoria, which had received proportionate representation on the C.B.C. network, would get "disproportionate" representation in the future, Mr. Murray indicated during the interview.

WEST COAST STATION

The suggestion was made by the junior chamber delegation that consideration be given to the establishment of a transmitter on the west coast of Vancouver Island, preferably at Nanaimo, with studios set up in Victoria and linked with the transmitter over the government telegraph cable now in existence.

Mr. Murray displayed interest in the proposal and took notes on the matter.

Police Seek Man They Believe Insane From Fear After Throwing Body of Abducted Ten-year-old Charles Mattson in Brush South of Everett; Federal Agents Attempt to Trace Movements of F. O. Haynes, Formerly a Prisoner at Folsom, Cal.; Knife Hunted While Auto at Everett Is Reported One Used by Outlaw to Carry Boy's Body

Associated Press

Tacoma, Jan. 13.—A terrified killer—possibly insane from fear—was sought today for the kidnap slaying of ten-year-old Charles Mattson as officers for the first time named one man wanted in connection with the case.

The man named was Fred Orrin Haynes, two-time California convict. Folsom Prison officials announced they had been asked to locate him, while state officers at Sacramento, California, were checking his fingerprints. The Folsom officials asserted the Federal Bureau of Investigation had made the request for information about Haynes, but had not revealed what his possible connection with the case might be.

The information was believed to have come from John Hanson, federal agent at Los Angeles, who admitted he had informed agents at Tacoma of the activities of a known criminal who answered the description of the Mattson kidnapper.

Harold Nathan, assistant chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, refused at Tacoma to comment on the Haynes report.

AUTO EXAMINED

An automobile picked up in the north end of Everett yesterday evening, on the rear seat of which were reported to be rags or clothing which appeared to be soaked with blood, was closely guarded today in the Everett city hall basement. An armed guard was posted about it.

Police towed it to the city hall and state patrol officers gave it a thorough examination last night. Canvas was stretched about it to shield it from the curious. It had been parked at one place since Sunday night.

Nathan's agents meanwhile checked every report of apparently demented men in this area, and conducted another search for a long-lashed knife with which Charles was stabbed during his captivity.

BANK ROBBERY

They also investigated thoroughly the robbery of a suburban branch bank here today, on the chance the kidnapper-slayer might possibly have taken the desperate chance of a hold-up to obtain funds for a getaway.

The bank bandit secured $1,500 in currency and silver by holding up several employees and escaped under a hail of rifle fire in what was believed to be a stolen automobile. His description did not tally with that given previously for the kidnapper.

IN STATE OF TERROR

The kidnapper's reported terror and incoherence led officers to believe some frantic act of his might lead them directly to him within a few hours.

The man has been frequently described as apparently suffering intense fear of the consequences of his act. He was so afraid while he held the boy captive, according to a spokesman for the Mattson family, that he refused to make any effort to collect the $25,000 ransom demanded. Dr. W. W. Mattson, who talked by telephone to the kidnapper at least twice, was reported to have said his conversation became increasingly difficult to follow each time.

"He was too yellow to come out of his hiding place even for the money," Paul Seave, family friend, told the Associated Press.

WRISTS WERE BOUND

Additional evidence of the man's terror was seen in the fact he kept the slight, seventy-pound boy bound tightly, tied by the wrists during his captivity. The manner in which he killed the boy, beating him about the head with some heavy instrument such as the blunt side of an axe, also indicated sudden terror, officers believed.

Spokane Building Scene Of Blasts

Two Explosions Believed Caused By Gas Mains Wreck Steps of Post Office; Child Is Injured

Associated Press

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 13.—Two explosions at the front of the post office here shortly after noon today blew the concrete steps of the building to bits.

Postal officials said the explosions were under the steps, and probably were caused by gas mains. A small girl was reported hurled to the sidewalk by the concussion.

She was picked up and rushed to hospital in a car before her injuries were ascertained.

The terrific blast hurled great pieces of the concrete steps about the sidewalk, ripping them completely out and leaving a big wreckage-strewn gap at the front of the structure.

Windows of buildings across the street were cracked. Bystanders said the entire street was shaken.

Vancouver Snow Slows By-election

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Voters made their way over snow-covered streets here today to cast their ballots in the aldermanic by-election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman A. M. Anderson.

Contesting the vacant seat are George Buscombe, Lynn Browne, Mrs. Helena Guttridge, H. L. Corey, L. D. McDonald and W. W. Smith.

QUOTE STATUTE
Arguing that Parliament should have been called, Mr. Woodsworth drew attention to that part of the preamble of the Statute of Westminster which reads:

"Inasmuch as the crown is the symbol of the free association of the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and as they are united by a common allegiance to the crown, it would be in accord with the established constitutional position of all the members of the Commonwealth in relation to one another that any alteration in the law touching the succession to the throne or the royal style and titles shall hereafter require the assent as well of the Parliament of all the Dominions as of the Parliament of the United Kingdom."

QUESTION OF DATE

Mr. Woodsworth said Prime Minister King had indicated when the crisis arose there had not been time to give members sufficient notice for the calling of Parliament. "We could have waited a little," the C.C.F. head observed. "Why all the haste?" Mr. Woodsworth's motion will be "for a copy of all correspondence, telegrams, cablegrams and memoranda exchanged between the Prime Minister of Canada or any Canadian official and the Prime Minister of Great Britain or any official or representative of the British government or crown regarding the proposed marriage and abdication of his former Majesty, King Edward VIII, or the succession to the throne, and the accession of His Majesty King George VI, also copies of all orders-in-council relative to the above matters."

Ottawa, Jan. 13 (Canadian Press).—Every incoming train today brought its quota of members of Parliament to Ottawa. Many are already here and the rest will arrive between now and Monday.

All party leaders will be in the House except Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservatives, who is on his way from England after a round-the-world tour. Sir George Perley, member for Argenteuil, will act as Conservative House leader, pending Mr. Bennett's appearance Monday.

Prime Minister King and his ministers hold their last pre-session cabinet meeting today. For weeks they have been busy preparing the session's programme.

Leaders of the two smaller parties, J. S. Woodsworth of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, and John Blackmore of the Social Credit advocates, are in Ottawa and are ready for the opening.

Mr. Woodsworth said today that he had no reason to think the perpetrators of the gashy kidnap-murder of ten-year-old Charles Mattson were in the province. The Attorney-General's statement was taken, however, as indicating that full co-operation would be accorded the authorities across the border in the search for the criminals.

The local authorities are as highly concerned over the Tacoma tragedy as if it had occurred within this province.

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—H. Major reported to city police last night that a man whom he said fitted the description of the kidnapper of ten-year-old Charles Mattson in Tacoma, accompanied by a woman who talked with a lisp, had come to his home yesterday and asked for food.

Mr. Major said his suspicions were aroused after he had sent them on their way with twenty-five cents, when he read newspaper descriptions of the kidnapper and realized they fitted the man exactly.

Today, while police here, in common with all other forces in the Pacific northwest, were watching for any clue to the whereabouts of the Mattson kidnapper, no information came to indicate the man Mr. Major saw was the abductor-murderer.

Police at Grand Forks, B.C., have two men they say had guns in truck.

Grand Forks, B.C., Jan. 13.—Tight-lipped federal and provincial police today guarded the cell of two alien border-runners while a few miles to the south, across the United States line, a vast dragnet was being spread by authorities for the kidnapper and slayer of ten-year-old Charles Mattson.

United States police, keyed to fever pitch in their search for the slayer of the young Tacoma boy, were sent descriptions of two men, giving their names as Leonard Dahl, thirty-one, and William Bailey, about forty-four, who were arrested here yesterday after they had crossed the international border in gun-laden vehicles.

Tacoma police said they understood United States federal agents had been sent here to question Dahl and Bailey, already convicted of carrying arms without a permit and held for immigration authorities by Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

CHECK IS ROUTINE
Corporal J. C. Hooker of the provincial police said today: "A check-up is being made with the United States authorities. Just in case the men may have some connection with the Mattson affair, but the check is purely routine."

Corp. Hooker said he expected to have more information about the case today.

Meanwhile police here sent detailed descriptions of the men, their dress, their weapons and the truck and car they were driving to Washington state police.

The two men, armed with two loaded rifles, a loaded shotgun, one unloaded rifle and a quantity of ammunition, had made no explanation today as to why they had backed drifts on a closed, snow-bound roadway to enter Canada.

DESCRIPTIONS GIVEN
Bailey was described by police as about five feet seven inches tall, weight 165, medium-complexion, dark hair, gray eyes, medium complexion and a scar on his upper lip. Dahl is five feet nine and a half inches tall, weight 147 pounds, light hair medium complexion and gray eyes.

Descriptions of the two were sent to Tacoma, where the United States police network searching for a Mattson suspect described as aged about thirty-eight, weight, 145 pounds, height five feet seven inches, complexion swarthy, hair black, beard black, eyes brown, speech with a slight accent, voice deep.

ARRESTED DURING MEAL
Dahl and Bailey, arrested by provincial coronator Hooker and mounted constables Harry Giles and Thomas Fell as they dined in their truck four miles this side of the border, spent the night in the barred look-up here. They stood convicted of carrying arms and had paid fines of $20 each from the $200 in United States currency found in their possession when arrested.

The men said they were from Miles City, Mont., and had passed through Idaho, Spokane, Wash., and Republic, Wash., enroute to Metairie Falls, Wash.

PONTIFF TAKEN FROM SICKBED
Pope Pius Placed in Wheelchair for First Time in More Than Month

Vatican City, Jan. 13.—Pope Pius left his sickbed today for the first time in more than a month.

The pontiff, ill with a variety of old-age complications, was placed in a wheelchair especially constructed to allow him to rest without discomfort to his legs, swollen with varicose veins.

The chair was pushed from the Holy Father's bedroom to a private chapel nearby, where the pontiff prayed. Then he was taken to an antechamber where he received members of his family who have been barred from his presence for several weeks.

Felices said the Pope's improving condition might enable him to hold private audiences in the papal chambers.

Pain in his legs and stomach have disturbed the Holy Father, Vatican sources disclosed, although his doctors considered him in no immediate danger.

From time to time, the Pope slips into periods of depression, these sources said, while at other moments he is calm and his strong character prevails.

NEPHEW REPORTS
Indianapolis, Jan. 13.—Thomas Bridges, a county employee, said today he believes the body of a man found frozen near Kingdom City, Mo., is that of his uncle, Thomas Bridges, seventy-six formerly of Rensselaer.

Bridges said his uncle had gone to Kelso several months ago to see a daughter, Mrs. Edith Barker.

Ready to Assist in Any Way in Hunt for Murderer of Mattson Boy

Attorney-General Gordon Sloan announced today that all provincial law enforcement agencies were ready to render every assistance to United States authorities in connection with the Tacoma kidnapping case.

Provincial police headquarters intimated at the same time they had no reason to think the perpetrators of the gashy kidnap-murder of ten-year-old Charles Mattson were in the province. The Attorney-General's statement was taken, however, as indicating that full co-operation would be accorded the authorities across the border in the search for the criminals.

Tacoma police said they understood United States federal agents had been sent here to question Dahl and Bailey, already convicted of carrying arms without a permit and held for immigration authorities by Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

CHECK IS ROUTINE
Corporal J. C. Hooker of the provincial police said today: "A check-up is being made with the United States authorities. Just in case the men may have some connection with the Mattson affair, but the check is purely routine."

Corp. Hooker said he expected to have more information about the case today.

Meanwhile police here sent detailed descriptions of the men, their dress, their weapons and the truck and car they were driving to Washington state police.

The two men, armed with two loaded rifles, a loaded shotgun, one unloaded rifle and a quantity of ammunition, had made no explanation today as to why they had backed drifts on a closed, snow-bound roadway to enter Canada.

DESCRIPTIONS GIVEN
Bailey was described by police as about five feet seven inches tall, weight 165, medium-complexion, dark hair, gray eyes, medium complexion and a scar on his upper lip. Dahl is five feet nine and a half inches tall, weight 147 pounds, light hair medium complexion and gray eyes.

Descriptions of the two were sent to Tacoma, where the United States police network searching for a Mattson suspect described as aged about thirty-eight, weight, 145 pounds, height five feet seven inches, complexion swarthy, hair black, beard black, eyes brown, speech with a slight accent, voice deep.

ARRESTED DURING MEAL
Dahl and Bailey, arrested by provincial coronator Hooker and mounted constables Harry Giles and Thomas Fell as they dined in their truck four miles this side of the border, spent the night in the barred look-up here. They stood convicted of carrying arms and had paid fines of $20 each from the $200 in United States currency found in their possession when arrested.

The men said they were from Miles City, Mont., and had passed through Idaho, Spokane, Wash., and Republic, Wash., enroute to Metairie Falls, Wash.

PONTIFF TAKEN FROM SICKBED
Pope Pius Placed in Wheelchair for First Time in More Than Month

Vatican City, Jan. 13.—Pope Pius left his sickbed today for the first time in more than a month.

The pontiff, ill with a variety of old-age complications, was placed in a wheelchair especially constructed to allow him to rest without discomfort to his legs, swollen with varicose veins.

The chair was pushed from the Holy Father's bedroom to a private chapel nearby, where the pontiff prayed. Then he was taken to an antechamber where he received members of his family who have been barred from his presence for several weeks.

Felices said the Pope's improving condition might enable him to hold private audiences in the papal chambers.

Pain in his legs and stomach have disturbed the Holy Father, Vatican sources disclosed, although his doctors considered him in no immediate danger.

From time to time, the Pope slips into periods of depression, these sources said, while at other moments he is calm and his strong character prevails.

NEPHEW REPORTS
Indianapolis, Jan. 13.—Thomas Bridges, a county employee, said today he believes the body of a man found frozen near Kingdom City, Mo., is that of his uncle, Thomas Bridges, seventy-six formerly of Rensselaer.

Bridges said his uncle had gone to Kelso several months ago to see a daughter, Mrs. Edith Barker.

Persons in Vancouver Write They Know Where Late Charles Mattson Was Held

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Two anonymous letters from persons claiming to know where Charles Mattson of Tacoma was held by his kidnapper-slayer were forwarded to the Vancouver city police today by The Vancouver Daily Province.

The letters, addressed to the paper, were mailed in Vancouver. The writers declared the abducted boy was held in a shack near an Indian reservation in the Puyallup district.

Superintendent Herbert Darling of the criminal investigation bureau forwarded the letters to Tacoma, but said today the letters were "probably imaginative."

A minute description of the shack and surrounding territory was given, and names of persons were mentioned as being connected with the crime.

One letter was received January 8 and the other January 11.

They pointed out the man had taken the long chance of moving the body in his automobile after he had once secreted it somewhere outdoors. This, too, would indicate he was desperately afraid of detection, they said.

NOTE WRITTEN EARLY
Whether Charles was kidnapped by a man demented at the time seemed extremely doubtful to officers in view of the fact the ransom note had been prepared some time before the crime and due to the apparent connection with an earlier kidnapping attempt at the George Franklin home, a block from the Mattson residence.

Associated Press

Everett, Wash., Jan. 13.—An automobile—possibly that in which the slayer of ten-year-old Charles Mattson took the boy's body to a secluded spot near here Sunday—was held behind an armed guard by police today.

The car, believed to contain blood-soaked clothing that was torn from the kidnapped Tacoma boy before his naked body was dumped in an isolated scrubland where it was found Monday, was picked up early last night and immediately taken to police headquarters.

A north-end resident, who told police the car had been abandoned since Sunday night, asserted that rags or clothing that appeared to be soaked with blood were in the rear seat of the machine.

OBSERVERS BARRED
The machine was placed in the city hall basement. A canvas sheet was spread around it as police started a minute examination.

Authorities would give out no details concerning the car. An armed guard was posted about the room where it was hidden.

STOLEN FRIDAY
The car was stolen from Verne Williams of Everett, early last Friday night and its theft reported shortly after. It was parked in front of the house of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Forslund some time after midnight Sunday.

Mr. Forslund said today.

She and Mr. Forslund returned home after that hour from a call on friends and both said Mr. Forslund are confident it was not there when they went into their home.

A front door of the machine, a very dark gray Chevrolet, was left ajar.

Tire marks of the impounded car are reported to resemble those on the automobile that officers believe carried the body of the Mattson boy to the brush, a covered area south of Everett.

BLOOD ON HANDKERCHIEF
In a statement this afternoon Mr. Forslund, an employee of the Robinson Manufacturing Company, said that what appeared to be a blood-stained handkerchief was left on a fender of the automobile.

In the interior of the car, he said, was a set of tire chains, one chain having been left in front of the front seat and the other in the rear of the automobile.

The rear seat of the car was dirty, Mr. Forslund said, but whether the dirt came from spit or blue clay, such as was noted on the body of the murdered boy, he could not say.

The automobile did not bear the license plates on it at the time of its theft from Mr. Williams. The plates on the car were the ones reported by E. E. Parrish of Arlington to have been stolen Friday night from his automobile.

HUNTING FOR KNIFE
Associated Press

Tacoma, Jan. 13.—Law officers hunted a long knife today as one of the most important clues to the identity of the kidnapper-killer of ten-year-old Charles Mattson.

The knife was used in inflicting a deep wound in the kidnapped boy's back before he was slain by a blow on the head.

The Associated Press learned of the knife hunt and confirmed rumors of the stab wound from several reliable sources.

The same sources said the wound was narrow, apparently made by a long slim blade. They could not say whether a carving knife, stiletto or large penknife had been used, but hazarded the weapon was one of the three.

WANTED SECRETLY
The wound was one of the chief reasons for the autopsy performed

BRITONS WILL VISIT MOROCCO

Naval Officers From Gibraltar Invited to See if Any Germans Present

Canadian Press
London, Jan. 13.—British naval officers from Gibraltar are to know the truth about Spanish Morocco. Either today or tomorrow—when arrangements are complete—the British destroyer Vancov will put in at Melilla and land observers, afterwards proceeding to Ceuta.

The British observers will be given safe conduct carte blanche to proceed anywhere in Spanish Morocco to see for themselves what is being done, and to investigate the truth or otherwise of reports of German military activities.

The visit is to be paid on an invitation from Colonel J. Beigbeder y Atienza, Acting High Commissioner of Spanish Morocco, which was extended through the British consul at Tetuan.

DENIAL BY FRANCO
Canadian Press from Havas
Salamanca, Jan. 13.—General Francisco Franco today formally denied the presence of German troops in Spanish Morocco.

"Everyone knows Spanish Morocco is open to all citizens, who can visit the region and certify the falseness of the insidious reports disseminated," the insurgent commander said in an official announcement.

EVACUATION CONTINUES
Associated Press
Madrid, Jan. 13.—Thousands of Spanish non-combatants, obeying the government's compulsory evacuation order, quit the capital today in endless streams.

The War Office reported Socialist forces had driven back an insurgent column near Majadahonda, northwest of the capital.

It acknowledged, however, that insurgents who swept through that sector last week to break government communications with El Escorial and the Guadarrama defence line still held control at Las Rozas, El Plantio and Aravaca. Aravaca is about five miles from Madrid on the El Escorial highway.

MURDER CHARGE
New York, Jan. 13.—The bathtub slaying of pretty Mrs. Mary Robinson Case came to a swift and unexpected denouement today when investigators seized a thirty-three-year-old negro and charged her with the crime.

Thirty-six hours after the twenty-five-year-old housewife was strangled and beaten to death in her apartment, District Attorney Charles F. Sullivan announced that Major Greene, a negro porter employed in the apartment building, had been charged with murder.

Peiping, China, Jan. 13.—An estimated 50,000 onlookers watched five narcotics peddlers executed today on the broad steps of the world-famous Temple of Heaven.

The executions were the second in China's anti-narcotics crusade and were performed with gruesome fanfare.

HOQUAM INVESTIGATION
A former Hoquiam, Wash., man, whom Chief of Police Norman Foote said was investigated some time ago in connection with a threat to kidnap a Hoquiam girl, was listed as a suspect when Foote said federal and state authorities requested detailed information about the man, who Foote said might be "dangerously insane." Foote said the suspect answered the Mattson kidnapper's description.

Nearby Puyallup, however, decided its best clue was not so good.

Officials were excited late yesterday by reports a boy's bloody coat had been found near there.

Glen Barton, Puyallup police chief, denied the report and Harold Nathan, in charge of the federal agents investigating the case, had "no comment." Newspapersmen rushed to the scene for details.

Some time later, The Seattle Daily Times located the owner of the coat, who revealed it had been used to wrap the body of a freshly slaughtered pig while it was being taken to market.

DESCRIPTION OF KIDNAPPER
Known clues guiding the hunt were the physical description of the kidnapper; the peculiar ink and type used in the ransom note; the same peculiarities—repeated and possibly handwriting in two letters to Dr. Mattson; a plaster-of-paris cast of his sock-covered shoes, the prints of an automobile used to carry the body and the peculiarities of the killer's personality.

Searchers sought a man who answered this description: Weight, 145 pounds; height, 5 feet 7 inches; complexion, swarthy; hair, black; beard, black; eyes, brown; speech, with slight accent; voice, deep; age, about thirty-eight; when last seen he wore dark trousers, a blue blazer and a light cap.

DANGER OF ATTACK
Seattle, Jan. 13.—The Seattle Times today quoted Paul H. Sevea, who identified the body of ten-year-old Charles Mattson, kidnaper victim, near Everett Monday, as saying he believed his friend, Dr. W. W. Mattson, would have been killed had he actually contacted the kidnapper to pay the $28,000 demanded for return of his son.

"It is most fortunate that the doctor failed to pay the money," Sevea said.

"The kidnapper was cruel enough to kill the boy because the boy was smart and was too 'hot' to keep, so he undoubtedly would have killed Dr. Mattson, if the doctor had got close enough to him to pay the money. But the kidnapper was too 'yellow' to go that far," Sevea was quoted as saying.

The interview stated Sevea said the Mattsons had assurance during the first week of the boy's captivity that he was alive.

Sevea declined to say whether the assurance was a note written by Charles. The Times said, but that Sevea said such a note could have been written by the boy the night (December 27) he was kidnapped.

COUNTRESS HAIG ON EMPIRE TOUR

Canadian Press
London, Jan. 13.—Countess Haig, widow of the British Great War commander, departed today for India on the first leg of an Empire tour that eventually will take her to Canada.

From India she will proceed to Australia and South Africa and then to Canada by way of London. In Canada she proposes to do most of her traveling by plane.

The whole trip will occupy six months. It is connected with the preparation of Earl Haig's diary and she will consult veterans of the various overseas contingents which fought in France.

Eden Says Spain to Evolve Own System

British Foreign Secretary in Address to Press Association
Predicts Neither Fascism
Nor Communism
Will Gain Permanent Control

Canadian Press
London, Jan. 13.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden predicted yesterday neither Communism nor Fascism will gain a permanent foothold in Spain.

The form of government eventually to be established in Spain must be decided by the Spanish people and by them alone, he said.

"I know there are some who believe that, as the outcome of this civil war, Spain will inevitably have a government either Fascist or Communist," he observed. "That is not our belief. Contrarywise, we believe that neither of these forms of government being indigenous to Spain, neither is likely to endure."

In an address to the Foreign Press Association, Mr. Eden covered a wide range of foreign policy.

In voicing the view Spain would evolve its own form of government, Mr. Eden declared that "the less the foreigner interferes, the shorter the time will be." Britain, he said, had discouraged, and would continue to discourage, foreign intervention.

AID PEACE MOVES

The Foreign Secretary pledged Britain's friendship to any country sincerely committed for peace.

The "doctrine of class," he never had been accepted by the British people "because we are practical enough to see it makes no sense." Mr. Eden said to enthusiastic applause.

HITLER STATEMENT PRAISED

Chancellor Hitler's statement to the diplomatic corps in Berlin at Monday evening's reception urging the promotion of peace won praise from Mr. Eden.

"His Majesty's government warmly reciprocates those sentiments," he said.

BRITISH REARMAMENT

"Turning to armaments, he said: 'We are now engaged in rearmament on a considerable, indeed a formidable scale. In time it must impose a strain on our national finances and national prosperity, as it is already doing elsewhere. Yet no other policy is open to us in a rapidly rearming world.'

"The British nation has no desire to spend money on armaments, yet let there be no mistake, in existing conditions it can show as stubborn determination as any other nation in re-equipment, which it regards vital to its national safety."

ECONOMIC CO-OPERATION

"But there is a better way. We definitely prefer butter to guns, and we are prepared to do our best by economic co-operation to secure that others have butter, too, in a world which has no need of guns."

If the nations should continue to withdraw into themselves and pile up armaments to the limits of their economic strength, Mr. Eden said, they would bring the world nearer an even greater disaster than the Great War.

"That way lies madness," he declared. "There may have been a time when nations could be independent and self-sufficient, but that day is long past. No nation today can prosper on the ruin of another."

PLEA TO BOTH SIDES

In what appeared a plea to Fascists and Communists, the Foreign Secretary continued:

"We are told that Europe now is entering on an heroic stage. By all means let us have heroism. But let us regard Europe as a land for heroes to live in, not merely die in. Let us seek that quieter heroism which is none the less real because it is restrained."

STEWART HARTSHORN Dies in New Jersey

Associated Press
Short Hills, N.J., Jan. 13.—Stewart Hartshorn, ninety-six, inventor of the spring shade roller, died of pneumonia yesterday.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disgusting little spots often result from a slight, temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing, or sometimes they are more persistent due to deeper internal causes.

While properly treating the underlying cause, you can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment that will keep the medication in contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For more than 40 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritation, and aids healing. It also treats the oil pores where many surface pimples start. Washing first with Resinol Soap quickens the pleasing results.

CASTS MADE OF FOOTPRINTS

G-men Also Took Casts of Tire Tracks Near Where Mattson Boy's Body Found

Associated Press
Seattle, Jan. 13.—Moulage — that revolutionary development in scientific criminology by which detectives make casts and preserve such perishable clues as footprints and tire tracks in snow—has been invoked by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the hunt for the kidnaper-murderer of ten-year-old Charles Mattson.

And by a coincidence, several pages of the last issue of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's law enforcement bulletin are devoted to the art by which government agents made imperishable records of the footprints and tire prints of the person who carried the little Tacoma boy's shattered body to a hiding place in the logged-off land south of Everett.

Said the bulletin, "an illustrated monthly devoted to scientific crime detection."

"Footprints, though long known as an invaluable means of identification, still commonly are overlooked or completely forgotten by the over-cautious or inexperienced officer."

CARE EXERCISED

Such was not the case when Snohomish County authorities arrived on the scene Monday and preserved tracks until the federal agents could arrive with their talcum powder cans and plaster of paris paste. They knew that each individual tire track and each individual footprint has peculiarities of wear and marks which can be detected.

So the G-men sprinkled the prints with talcum powder to insulate the frozen snow from being melted by the melted paste; then poured the paste carefully—reinforcing the thin layer with bits of wire to serve as handholds for lifting the cooled, imperishable casts.

And with the job completed, the G-men now know the size and shape of the slayer's footwear and the marked peculiarities of his automobile tires.

Similarities in Two Kidnappings

Associated Press
Tacoma, Jan. 13.—Here are some striking similarities linking the Mattson and Lindbergh kidnappers:

Both boys slain soon after kidnapped.

Name of both boys was Charles.

Bodies of both victims found in woods.

Ladder used in Lindbergh kidnapping; police still holding ladder as clue in Mattson case.

Lindbergh kidnapper used stockings over shoes in snow; Mattson kidnapper apparently did same from tracks observed around Mattson boy's body.

Classified advertisements used in both cases.

Name of youth who found Mattson boy was Morrow—maiden name of Col. Lindbergh's wife, Anne Morrow.

SPANISH BUDGET

Valencia, Jan. 13. (Associated Press)—War or no war, the Spanish Government yesterday announced it had "balanced the budget." Estimated expenditures were placed at 5,264,243,631 pesetas (at the nominal rate of exchange about $968,398,454) and estimated revenues, 5,264,244,000 pesetas ($968,497,000).

LICENSE FEE OF $50,000 IS URGED

Associated Press
Halifax, Jan. 13.—The Nova Scotia Exhibition Commission is asking the provincial government to pass legislation compelling the Canadian Performing Rights Society to pay an annual license of $50,000 to operate within the province.

Licensing of the society was sought at a meeting of the commission yesterday after Mayor E. J. Cragg of Halifax, vice-president, had read a letter from City Solicitor C. P. Bethune calling the commission's attention to the fact it was liable to a $1,300 tax by the society for use of copyright material at the provincial exhibition.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Hotel owners, exhibition directors and others are awaiting with interest announcement by the Copyright Appeal Board of possible changes in the tariff of fees proposed for 1937 by the Canadian Performing Rights Society.

No comment was available today on reports from Halifax the exhibition commission there had decided to ask the Nova Scotia government to compel the society to pay an annual fee of $50,000 for a license to operate in the province.

Objections against the society's tariffs and its defence of them were aired here last December 18 at a hearing before the Copyright Appeal Board and the board has yet to make its ruling, allowing or changing the fees.

Britain Plans Big Food Reserves

Associated Press
London, Jan. 13.—Plans to build up huge reserves of wheat and other foodstuffs will be submitted to Parliament soon after it meets January 19, according to officials of the new food defence plans department.

They explained buying would not start until the necessary funds had been appropriated, but predicted a reserve sufficient for between six months and a year would be accumulated gradually.

Seasoned Chief In Manhunt

H. Nathan, Leads G-men's Search For Slayer of Charles Mattson of Tacoma

Associated Press
Washington, Jan. 13.—Harold Nathan, in charge of United States federal agents working on the Mattson kidnap-killing in the Tacoma-Seattle-Everett district, ranks as one of the justice department's ace man hunters.

Born in New York more than a half century ago, he has participated in more than a score of kidnapping investigations, including those of Charles F. Urschel of Oklahoma and little George Weyerhaeuser of Tacoma.

He is widely credited with coordinating the pursuit through sixteen states of George (Machine Gun) Kelly and Harvey Bailey of the United States kidnap gang.

Nathan is studious in appearance, and when he called on Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh after the abduction of their baby in 1932, many persons erroneously believed him to be a clergyman.

Friends chuckle at his habit of rising at dawn to smoke his pipe over volumes of Voltaire and Spinoza. He reads foreign novels in the original.

FORESTRY CAMP PLAN APPROVED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 13.—British Columbia's plan of employing young men in forestry camps carried out during the past two years under provincial auspices was recommended yesterday evening for adoption to other Canadian provinces.

The recommendation of the plan, stated to have worked out successfully, was made at the concluding session of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers prior to election of officers.

W. A. Delaney of the Canadian International Paper Company of Maniwaki, Que., was re-elected president.

A. H. Richardson of the Ontario forestry branch, Toronto, was elected vice-president.

Section executives include P. D. Mulholland, Victoria, B.C., Prof. F. M. Knapp, University of British Columbia, and G. S. Andrews, Victoria.

U.S. Magazine Barred By Japan

Associated Press
Tokyo, Jan. 13.—Tokio authorities announced today they had banned the December 5 issue of the Literary Digest because of "an article slandering the Japanese-German anti-communist agreement and a cartoon disrespectful to the throne."

Forty Persons Fall Into River

Nice, France, Jan. 13.—Forty persons, including a number of women, were thrown into the Paillon River when a section of the Promenade Des Anglais, concrete along the Mediterranean, collapsed yesterday. Severe bruises were the only injuries.

Blame Placed By Coroner's Jury

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—A coroner's jury yesterday found Robert Mahlig, fifty-three-year-old Canadian National Railways policeman killed January 6 at the Union Station, died from effects of a fracture of the skull and named Lorne Kennedy, electrician, criminally responsible for his death.

The jury found the skull fracture resulted from a blow by Kennedy and brought on a cerebral hemorrhage.

Kennedy is in custody charged nominally with vagrancy. He was arrested after a disturbance at the station during which he was alleged to have aimed a blow at the constable's head with his fist.

Dr. F. W. McKinnon who performed an autopsy, said Mahlig had an unusually thin skull for a man of his size and must have died immediately.

BUILDING IS INVESTIGATED

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—A special investigation committee was appointed by the City Council yesterday to investigate construction of Vancouver's new $1,500,000 City Hall and to determine whether the construction company carried out terms of its agreement.

The committee will consist of Corporation Counsel D. E. McTaggart, City Engineer Charles Brackenridge, Building Inspector Andrew Haggart, City Electrician Thomas Martin and Acting Comptroller Frank Jones.

Montreal Girl Held For Trial

Geraldine Leitch Is Charged With Killing Her Stepmother

Canadian Press
Montreal, Jan. 13.—Geraldine Leitch, twenty-four-year-old Montreal nurse, today faced a charge of murder in connection with the death of her stepmother, Mrs. Kathleen Leitch.

Miss Leitch was arraigned before Judge Jules Desmarais yesterday and remanded without bail for preliminary hearing January 20.

Earlier yesterday a coroner's jury had held Miss Leitch was criminally responsible for the death. Mrs. Leitch is alleged to have suffered injuries in an altercation with her stepdaughter at their home here last Sunday. She died in a hospital.

The young graduate nurse sat quietly yesterday as witnesses told of domestic strife in the Leitch home over a period of years.

Gerald A. E. Leitch testified ill-feeling had developed between his wife, whom he married in 1927, and his daughter by a former marriage. During the last three years "things were often unpleasant," he said.

SCUFFLE ON STAIR

Sunday morning, said Leitch, his wife accused Geraldine of keeping company with a married man. A scuffle on the stair landing followed, he said, and he found his wife lying on the floor with Geraldine trying to pick her up.

In a statement made by Miss Leitch to detectives she was quoted as saying she thought her stepmother was "having one of her nervous fits" when the older woman started screaming. "I grabbed her by the shoulders and started to shake her," the statement said.

Dr. Charles W. Vipond, summoned to the Leitch home by a brother of Mrs. Leitch, John F. Murray, testified he found the woman in a highly nervous condition, but apparently not seriously hurt. She told him, the doctor said, she had been pushed down several steps by her stepdaughter. He ordered her removed to a hospital, where she died.

Medical evidence showed the woman had died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Great Estate To Aid Education

Associated Press
New York, Jan. 13.—Bulk of the fortune of $500,000 which Charles Hayden amassed as a Wall Street banker is to be used for establishment of an educational foundation bearing his name, his will, filed yesterday directs.

After specific bequests of $3,750,000—of which $1,000,000 goes to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $2,000,000 for establishment of a trust fund for his brother Joseph of Lexington, Mass., and lesser bequests to other relatives and friends—the wealthy bachelor directed that the rest go to the foundation.

Ras Imeru Is Prisoner in Italy

Naples, Jan. 13.—Ras Imeru, cousin of former Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, reached here yesterday as a prisoner.

Authorities said he would be taken to the Italian penal colony on Ponza Island in the Tyrrhenian Sea west of Naples.

Ras Imeru, once governor of Gojjam province of Ethiopia, was captured in December. Italian officers said he was the last of the major chieftains resisting fascist occupation of the country.

COAL SUPPLY AT A MOMENT'S NOTICE

Mrs. Nabor's coal bin is only as far away as her telephone . . . in good weather and bad . . . her fuel supply is guaranteed by the vast reserves of NANAIMO-WELLINGTON and COMOX COAL in Nature's own storehouse on Vancouver Island. Vagaries of weather don't bother Mrs. Nabor because her home is filled with stored sunshine all winter long. She has no worries, because her fuel dollar buys the hottest and cleanest coal available and she knows that every ton she buys helps to keep the home fires burning in some Island miner's home.

Major Murray's Visit

VICTORIA IS GLAD TO WELCOME Major W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and formerly an important executive of the British Broadcasting Corporation, who is in the city—the capital city of his native province—to discover for himself what ought to be done about the radio business here.

It is not for us to suggest what Major Murray shall tell his colleagues after he has conducted his survey of local conditions. His knowledge of the science which has contracted the world to a Lilliputian state is taken for granted. What Victorians and Vancouverians want to know from Major Murray, however, is what he thinks ought to be done about Victoria—from the radio point of view—in conformity with its importance as the capital city of British Columbia.

It would not be fitting at this time to talk "without the book." Major Murray's experience in the realm of radio and all its implications may be relied upon to furnish a solution for Vancouver Island's problem in this matter. To put it bluntly to Major Murray—we want a better deal than we have been getting. We ask the general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to give it his consideration. We hope he will.

Confused Racial Concepts

PERHAPS THE MOST-CITED PARABLE outside Holy Writ is the tale of those Men of Hindustan, to learning much inclined, who went to see the Elephant—though all of them were blind. They got, it will be remembered, into a row, because each had obtained only a partial view of the wonderful beast, but insisted that his was the whole and only true concept of the Elephant.

Not exactly the same confusion, but something rather like it, seems to obtain in the even louder and longer dispute over the concept of Race, now raging in Europe. Nature, the scientific journal published in London, has an editorial comment indicating that much of the mischief has been done by political lifting of the Mendelian concept of "race" from the field of biology, where it has a fairly definite meaning, and thrusting it by force into the field of socio-anthropology, where its legitimate meaning is quite different and much less exact than it is in biology.

The difficulty was made the subject of a special discussion at the recent meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. No one at this crowded meeting, says Nature, "was unaware that the speakers were indirectly commenting upon the exploitation of the race concept by politicians who apparently are deliberately confusing linguistic terms such as 'Aryan,' cultural terms such as 'germanic' and genetic terms like 'Nordic' by using them synonymously."

"It undoubtedly is the case that the term 'race' is now being used in a pseudo-scientific sense to further purely political interests, and this being so, it behooves all scientific workers—anthropologists, ethnologists and the rest—to respond to the demand on the part of the general public for guidance concerning the quality of the pronouncements of those who claim scientific endorsement for their own peculiar attitudes toward such matters as territorial readjustment, immigration quota or the relative intellectual pre-eminence of certain national groups."

"The impression left at the end of this meeting was that the anthropologist's definition of race has general implications; that it has been established that the rise of modern genetics has necessitated a thorough overhaul of the basic concepts of physical anthropology, that the techniques of genetics should now be added to those of the anthropologist, and that general analyses of human differences and the correlation between them should be undertaken, and that, as applied to mankind, it is now quite impossible to give a scientific definition to the term 'race' since this has connotations which do not apply in human species. Now that the politician has appropriated the term, it is time for the man of science to relinquish it."

Life and Magnetism

THAT HUMAN LIFE IS IN SOME way bound up with the great force of magnetism has long been a speculation of man. "Personal magnetism" is a pseudo-scientific phrase which shows one form of this type of speculation.

At the recent conference at Princeton University on molecular structure, however, a true scientific basis for linking magnetism and life was discussed. The link appears to take place in the blood and makes possible the body's respiration.

Dr. Worth H. Rodebush of Illinois University's chemistry department, told of the role the magnetic property of oxygen plays in life. Oxygen, he pointed out, supports respiration by permitting the oxidation of the blood's impurities at relatively low temperatures. But if it supported all forms of combustion as it does respiration, the whole world would shortly burn up, for all dry organic matter would quickly be consumed.

Something of the paradoxical behavior of oxygen is shown, Dr. Rodebush indicated, by its position in the periodic table of the chemical elements, where it stands between the inert gas nitrogen, on one hand, and the extremely reactive gas fluorine, on the other. Oxygen, in other words, has a considerable amount of chemical activity and affinity and yet not too much.

"A possible clue to the paradoxical behavior of oxygen is found in the fact," Dr. Rodebush said, "that, of all the common elementary diatomic gases, oxygen alone is paramagnetic, gathering in a magnetic field, and hence reacts readily with other magnetic materials, such as the iron in the hemoglobin of the blood."

Because of the magnetic characteristic of oxygen, explained Dr. Rodebush, it does not react so readily with the non-magnetic substances like cellulose and the hydrocarbons. Thus, spontaneous combustion does not occur at ordinary temperatures. Yet within the human body, the reaction between oxygen and hemoglobin, by which the impurities in the blood are burned, takes place readily without raising the temperature above body heat.

Speaking of oxygen, Dr. Rodebush said: "It has been puzzling even to characterize the behavior of such a gas, let alone explain it. Oxygen and hydrogen are the two elements first studied in chemistry, and it is noteworthy that very little is known about the way in which they react with each other to form water and hydrogen peroxide, two of our commonest chemical molecules."

Paradoxical Europe

FROM BERLIN TODAY COMES A dispatch telling us that negotiations are officially under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France.

At this distance it is difficult to understand the paradoxical European situation. Here we have Germany and France, as we said yesterday, at daggers drawn, doing the very thing which must make for peace. For what on earth is the use of entering into a trade agreement if the participants in such an agreement are making arrangements to slit one another's throats?

It does not make sense. So we may say to ourselves that as long as two traditional enemies are willing to talk business it will be the business that will outlast war—which, of course, destroys all business and practically everything else.

True-And But

THE GENERAL MANAGER OF the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Mr. S. H. Logan, tells us Canadians that there is now visible a "definite turn to prosperity."

It is quite true; we have made big gains in business in the national sense since the tragic year ending March 31, 1933, after more than two years of rule under a high-tariff government. It will be four years at the end of March, 1937, since Canada's external business dropped to a pre-war level, with a population nearly three millions less than it is now. Any Canadian can consult the statistics published at Ottawa to learn that on March 31, 1933, the buying and selling of the Dominion of Canada was worth in value less than $900,000,000. At the end of March, 1930, it was very nearly three times that value.

The Times has said on many occasions that it would be unfair to place the blame for Canada's decline in external business on the policies of former Prime Minister Bennett. The Times has said, also, and it will repeat it without any editorial blush, that the tariff tinkering of which Mr. Bennett still is guilty caused a very great deal of the economic distress from which the Dominion still is suffering.

However, as the general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce quite properly says, Canadian business has taken a turn for the best—the elusive corner, of course, is evading many who are wondering from where the next meal is coming.

Still Some Unfortunates

A CORRESPONDENT WRITING IN our columns is impressed with the figures presented here showing the highest percentage of giving ever recorded was attained in the depression year 1932 and that as economic conditions have steadily improved since the percentage of giving has steadily declined.

On the surface, it seems odd that people are more inclined to aid others when they are least able; and yet, perhaps, it is only natural. It may be only when suffering and distress are widespread, and brought home to them personally, that people really can sympathize with the plight of their fellow-citizens.

If the return of good times is to benefit all, we must keep constantly alive to the needs of unfortunates.

Notes

The opposing armies in Spain are not running short of any war material except Spaniards.

You are not really old until you begin to remember how much worse the weather used to be.

We are becoming so civilized that we cannot bear the sight of cruelty to any animal except man.

No wonder peace is unsure. War would not be sure, either, if its advocates sat and wished for it.

An advertisement suggests people should have more iron in their diets. This should be easy for the Germans, who have been offered butter or cannons.

Wishing to present his young lady with a best seller on her birthday, the tactful young man will pass up that popular new book, "Live Alone and Like It."

Loose Ends

We develop a race of Popeyes, Annies and Armstrongs—it's cheaper to let maniacs drive—the children get out their sleighs—but they never really understand the snow here.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

POPEYES

THE FUTURE CULTURE of this country is going to pay a terrible price for what the young are now imbibing through the radio. What the precise effect will be, one cannot say, but it should be pretty bad.

When we were young we listened to our maiden aunts read us Gulliver's Travels, and the main books of Hapty, or, when we were younger, Andersen's fairy tales. Today, between 4 o'clock in the afternoon and dinner time, most of the children of North America, so far as I can make out, sit with ears glued to the radio, listening to a series of horrors, starting with the adventures of Popeye, the sailor man, proceeding into the grisly experiences of Little Orphan Annie and concluding with the horrible perils of Jack Armstrong, the all-American Boy.

Your offspring's entire attitude toward life is flavored with the philosophy of the eminent Popeye. Every small boy identifies himself with the powerful sailor man who used to live exclusively on spinach but has taken now, for radio purposes, to eating a certain commercial cereal which, we are told, is equally good as a muscle builder. The small boy now longs to be like Popeye, whereas your young son, having heard of the Indian fighter on the western plains. I think, on the whole, the life of an Indian fighter is a superior ambition. Popeye is not quite the perfect ideal, that any father would wish to fashion his son after, yet we are breeding a whole generation of Popeyes who don't even eat spinach any more, who live on cereal.

Little Orphan Annie and her somewhat low-brow associates are becoming the ideal of all the little girls in America and they will grow to womanhood under this fine cultural influence, where they used to model their lives on Florence Nightingale and Joan of Arc.

But the problem is not only cultural. It is physical as well. The modern child insists on eating Popeye's cereal and rejoices that the great hero has abandoned spinach under his advertising contract. He insists on drinking Orphan Annie's special health drink and must have Jack Armstrong's breakfast food. Living up to the standards of the radio people is a serious drain on the average family budget. It will be a worse drain on the national character later on. We are developing not only among the young but among the old as well a race of Popeyes, Annies and Armstrongs.

TOO EXPENSIVE

THE RECENT announcement that your automobile insurance is void if you or your friends drive without a B.C. driver's license shows you the absurdity of our whole licensing system. A driver's license is not insurance. It is a license to companies that an insured car will be driven only by a competent person and it should have no effect on the insurance for that reason.

Anybody can get a driver's license unless he is blind or insane. Even insanity is no barrier, judging by some of the driving you see on our highways. If drivers' licenses are to mean anything, if the lack of them is to void an insurance policy, they should not be issued without tests of all drivers.

If competent officials were to test all drivers, they would have to eliminate a substantial fraction of them in this country. You need expect nothing of the sort. We haven't even eliminated illegal driving yet, and aren't attempting to. Hardly anyone drives legally on our main highways. We don't pay enough policemen to enforce the speed laws. We think accidents are cheap.

VAIN RECOLLECTIONS

OUT HERE IN SAANICH, which is further north than the city and lacks the warm air of a city civilization, there has been a thin layer of snow lately, enough for the children to sleighride on. But it is pathetic to see them trying to do it. They don't know how. Bred in this climate, they don't understand the real technique of sleigh-riding. They get down the hill all right but they miss the finer points of the game. They will never learn to navigate a sleigh like a boy from Ontario, where most of their parents come from. No Victorian ever really understands the thing completely, the problems of navigation involved, the method of balance, the theory of momentum, the stresses and strains, the maximum weights, and, finally, the appetite engendered.

We Ontario boys learned those things young. We learned the art in all its branches before we were seven: how to hurl ourselves tumbling first upon the small flat sleigh to start it down the hill; how to make bobsleds out of two small sleds; how to steer a toboggan. And do you remember, you Ontario boys, how we used to pour water on the sidewalks to create a glistening sheet of glare ice past Dr. Benton's place, across the school yard and down to the edge of the river?

Do you remember how we used to tie our sleds behind the farmers' big bobsleds and let them pull us out into the country where the hills were higher? And how we would hook up to the baker's sleigh and help him deliver his bread in return for a steaming loaf, just hot out of the oven? Ah, the rich immortal smell of that hot bread in the baker's steaming shop behind the post office, and old Mr. Appleby the baker, in shirt sleeves, white with flour, sweating from his brick oven!

Do you remember, you hardy sons of the snow country, struggling to school through two feet of snow, dragging your sleigh behind? (Ah, the crunch of snow under heavy overshoes, the brisk, crisp, spirited sound of it beneath you, and the jingle of sleigh bells far away in the clear air!) Do you remember lunch, cold out of an old large pail, eaten around the red-hot stove in the country school room that smelled of chalk and oiled wooden floors and damp steaming overshoes and scarves and overcoats?

Do you remember the long walk home down by the river road, where the river cut jagged blue streaks through the snow, and the willow trees were so still and black against the sky? Do you remember the end of the short winter day, when we hurried to get home and the light of the house, a single gleam in that great smooth whiteness seemed the only friendly thing in the world, and we would run the last half mile to get to it? And do you remember how good it was to be inside the house, out of the cold, and to get yourself a snack of homemade bread and beef dripping before supper?

Do you remember those winter nights when the stars were close and your breath and the smoke from the chimneys went straight up into the air, and you could hear the stamp of the horses in the barn, the crunch of their strong teeth and the faint tinkle of the sleigh bells coming closer through the darkness?

You remember it, if you come from snow country. You remember and you like to see the children in Saanich sliding on their thin skin of snow, but you know that they will never understand winter as you knew it. A large part of life, an aspect of it essentially Canadian, will be lost to them. They will never be snow people like us.

WE LEARN FROM DICTATORS

From The New York Times

The world is learning from the dictators. It is discovering that by their very nature dictators must be a disturbing force. Quite apart from the good or evil they work in their own countries, the international system is too sensitive, too closely interlocked, to stand the shattering shocks of dictatorial methods. Dictators are too powerful; their tread is too heavy, their voices are too thunderous, their manners are too masterful, for this tremulous and aging planet we inhabit. The earth has no room for giants any more.

We are learning that even the virtues of dictators are too much for us. The internal order they enforce, for instance, only magnifies their capacity to provoke external disorder. Their decisiveness turns their every act into an ultimatum. Whatever they do they do with an effect of violence. Whenever they move they move suddenly and swiftly, in the manner of a supreme command springing surprises in war. The diplomacy they practice is not high-tat, not shrewd, not even the iron hand in the velvet glove. It is the diplomacy of the mailed fist, of naked force.

All this is a necessity of dictators. When one man speaks as a nation, he has to shout. Even when his decisions are long considered, they sound sudden because they are never publicly discussed and final because they are beyond question. The symbol of absolute power cannot for a moment relax from symbolizing. This is alarming enough when one dictator performs alone. When dictators move in concert, and in opposition, as are three great dictatorships at present, the collision shakes the whole international body.

The dictators, in short, teach us to chalk up one more advantage for democratic government. In the horse-and-buggy age they might have functioned without upsetting the union, but in the radio era, they crowd up on one another. They fill the air with noise and threat and turmoil. The world has become too small for rulers with limitless and unquestioned powers. If only to curb and slow down the drive of nations to speed limit where international traffic is possible, we need the creaking brakes of democracy.

DOWN TO HUMAN LEVEL

From The Arthur Enterprise-News

An Elora dog has been given a medal at a public gathering to celebrate his heroism, and a Toronto paper remarked that he would probably have liked far better a career from someone he loved and a good meaty bone. This thing of presenting medals to dogs, who don't know or care anything about them but who do heroic acts because they have a natural urge of heroism, seems to us a bit fantastic, a sort of bringing them down to the level of humans.

HUMAN PHENOMENON

HE FOUND OUT

(From The New York World-Telegram)

By now, the barbaric details of the Ethiopian and Spanish affairs must pretty well have disillusioned young men who had believed that war was crammed with romance and glamour. A twenty-four-year-old Bronx barber, Vincent Patriarca, however, got his lesson the hard way.

Spurred by patriotism and his enthusiasm for aviation, young Patriarca deserted his comb and shears, went overseas, enlisted, and flew with the Spanish rebels. For a time thrilling, exciting war that his every expectation. But his plane was downed over Madrid, and he was taken prisoner. Then it was that certainty of death before a firing squad brought him face to face with grim reality.

Luckily, the State Department effected his release, and he sped back to his Bronx barber shop. But any young man whose pulse stirs at the mention of war would do well to write Mr. Patriarca and get the real low-down.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. What is considered the very best excuse to give when declining an invitation that one does not care to accept?

A. An earlier engagement for that day or evening is probably the best excuse.
Q. When giving a dinner, should the host or hostess be sure to introduce a man to his dinner partner?
A. Yes; and if possible, one should see that he is also acquainted with the woman who is to sit on the other side of him.

Q. Should a woman rise when a clergyman enters the room?
A. It is optional, but is a nice way to show special deference.

Those who keep dogs instead of children should not be too severely condemned. The dogs won't expect to be sent to college and nature has endowed them with fur coats.

Letters to the Editor

KIDNAPPING QUESTION

To the Editor:—Could the Lindbergh, Hickman and Mattson crimes have happened in any other country than the United States?
 GEORGE CAMFORD,
 612 View Street.

ONE POINT ONLY IN FAVOR

To the Editor:—I might say Oak Bay does grant a little more to the married men without children than does Victoria City. But that is about all that can be said in its favor.
 INTERESTED.

GLAD OF APPRECIATION

To the Editor:—I was pleased to read in Mr. McDermott's letter that he appreciated my information. I was also pleased to see that there are other things as well as what I mentioned that science cannot cure which I cannot discuss here.

OBSERVANT.

CHEERS FOR THE MAYOR

To the Editor:—Three cheers for the Mayor of Victoria, and three times three for Mr. Wright of Wollaston Street.

We want men on our council who are above handing out public money for the sake of a following, who are above bribing one man with a job and (for reasons of their own) hounding other people away from their jobs. In a word, we want a square deal.

A WOMAN RATEPAYER.

Esquimalt.

GOOD WISHES FOR ISLAND BOOSTER

To the Editor:—I want to give Mr. B. A. McKelvie my heartfelt congratulations for all he has tried to do for the island. I wish him every success in what he has been trying to do. It is men like he who have a vision of the future like he has whom we should listen to. Victoria is the open door to the Pacific. We have all to gain and nothing to lose. Please don't close it.

J. W. ARCHER.

1404 Esquimalt Road.

THE FUTURE?

To the Editor:—Prof. Stephen Leacock says that public life lacks inspiration, and Mr. Bruce Hutchison says that men huddle in cities, being afraid to face the immensity of the stars.

The time may come when the lay public will demand absolutely unrestricted views of the marvelous sights to be seen through giant telescopes, when journeys to other planets will be "worth making the trip" when the movies will show telescopic views of the heavenly bodies.

Then what will Messieurs Hutchison and Leacock do for a living?

GLADYS SHRAPNEL.

1678 Olive Drive.

OAK BAY "APPLE SAUCE"

To the Editor:—The Municipal Council of Oak Bay take pains year after year to proclaim the splendid financial condition of Oak Bay and many advantages which the residents of that municipality have as compared with adjoining and other small municipalities in British Columbia. A great deal of this talk is "apple sauce" which is fed to the voters to keep the usual clique in office. However, if these gentlemen are such wonderful administrators, it is surprising that in their dealings with relief cases and their treatment of the less fortunate residents, they should fall so far below the standard of other municipalities on Vancouver Island.

F. T.

"A WILD IRISH PADRE"

To the Editor:—As regards T. Guy Sheppard's R.C. Irishman, who was the best padre your correspondent ever met and "one of the very few in front line trenches," he knows as well as I do that the front line was "foreign" to whole hosts of so-called combatants—let alone non-combatants.

As to this particular padre's sporadic spurges of "shillalysing"—I am not competent to judge as to whether a wild Irish padre is a better Highlander than, say, a Jew champion bagpipe player (a fine point like that needs a Merriman or a Bruce Hutchison to settle).

On the subject of Socialism and Christianity we are apparently on common ground (our boats having presumably now reached the bank)—what a hope! My contention is that one can be a Socialist without admitting being a Christian, but one can't admit being a Christian without de facto being a Socialist.

GEORGE LE GALLAIS.
 "Robinson," Cranmore Road.
 P.S.—I don't so much mind being called "old bean," but remember, I'm no scarlet runner! G. Le G.

"DUBIOUS ABOUT 'BEST PEOPLE'"

To the Editor:—To Rockland Avenue resident: "Oh, wert thou in the cauld blast, I'd shelter thee."

For the enlightenment of the proletariat (the common herd)—I ask "Resident of Rockland Avenue" who wrote to The Times about Mr. Hutchison's remarks, to make known the qualities according to his or her mind which go to make up "Our Best People" to be found only on Rockland Avenue, and if they are the best examples of man and womanhood.

I suggest that "Resident" knock the cobwebs that harbor inhuman and insane ideas from the mind, thereby allowing God's fresh air and sunshine to play freely upon it that it may be made healthy, stronger and broader.

"What dost thou in that mansion fair? Fit (move), Resident, and find a narrow, dirty dungeon cave, the picture of thy mind."—Burns.
 Mr. Hutchison, I imagine, had good foundation for his assertion, but it is apparent that today exposure is considered, by our best people, to be more sinful than sinful acts.

PAINS ALL OVER HIS BODY

Kruschen Made Him Feel a New Man

Read the experience of this man who had rheumatism so badly at times he was prevented from working.

"About 10 months ago," he writes, "I suffered terribly with rheumatism and neuritis. The pains were all over my body and some days I could not even get up from bed to go to work. A friend visited me and suggested that I should try Kruschen Salts. I did so, the result being that the pains seemed to gradually disappear. I have been going to work ever since without a break, thanks to Kruschen Salts, and I feel a new man."

Rheumatic conditions are frequently the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES JUST AROUND THE CORNER

It may seem unreasonable, but a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomfort that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and failing energy. All he does know is that other women seem more cheerful by comparison.

Are you such a three-quarter wife?

Don't let the ordeal that all women face cause you avoidable discomfort or endanger your home. Do as so many wise women have done—take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For three generations one woman has told another how to get "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tune up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three cycles of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood, 2. Preparing for motherhood, 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."

Lady Marler Has Bereavement

Canadian Press
 Montreal, Jan. 13.—Mrs. J. S. Allan, mother of Lady Marler, wife of the Canadian Minister to Washington, died yesterday at her home here after a long illness.

She was a native of Montreal. Besides the wife of Sir Herbert Marler, she is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Emerson, Balnbridge, of London, Eng.; Mrs. Graham Reid, Kelowna, B.C.; Mrs. William Nicholson, Toronto; and Miss Marjorie Allan, Montreal, and one son, Andrew, in Montreal.

Schiaparelli Gives Views On Dress

New York.—A fur coat and six pairs of shoes are "essential" to every woman who aims at being well dressed.

That is the opinion of Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, the famous fashion designer.

"Every woman should have in her wardrobe one fur coat, one tweed suit, a dark tailored suit, a silk dress for afternoon wear, at least four hats and as many more as she can afford, six pairs of shoes and all the accessories to suit," she told interviewers on her arrival in New York on a shopping spree.

But it was possible to have too many clothes, she warned. "The fewer clothes the better," she said, "as long as they are of good quality."

Her favorite costume for women was the tailored suit.

Her own ensemble on arrival was a carbon-black tweed suit and an unbuttoned beaver hat designed after the style of a gaudy man's borsalino. Her eyelashes were tinted bright blue.

One of the main reasons for her visit to New York, she said, was that she was weary of buying everything from her own fashion house in London and Paris.

PEARL MISTLETOE

In Paris, hats are fashion's most attractive feature just now.

Many have been decorated with sprigs of mother-of-pearl mistletoe, seasonable until well into the new year as decoration for hats and homes.

Berets, in soft felt or suede, are very popular. Many of them have a feather on one side in the manner of a Scott's shaver.

The high-crowned hats, inspired by Tyrolean peasants, will also be fashionable until the spring models are announced. These hats are made of pleated felt ornamented with cockades of feathers at the right-hand side of the brim. Others have a little quiff of fur or ribbon as a cockade.

For evening, Juliet caps of seed pearls are being worn by some fashionable women. Others are preferring to go bareheaded, trusting to a chiffon scarf which matches their frock, to protect their hair from disarrangement when passing from car to theatre or restaurant.

W. J. Saunders Of Hazelton Dies

Canadian Press
 Hazelton, B.C., Jan. 13.—William J. Saunders, seventy-three, who was sergeant-at-arms in the British Columbia Legislature during the McBride administration and a resident of this district for many years, was found dead in his home yesterday. Death was believed due to natural causes.

Mr. Saunders, who was registrar of vital statistics for this community at the time of his death, had been in poor health for several years.

Man Kills His Family and Self

Canadian Press
 Washington, Jan. 13.—Three members of a family were clubbed to death tonight, and a short time later a man identified by police as Corbin Boorman, sixty-five, head of the household, hurled himself to death under the wheels of a fast freight train.

Police said Boorman, enraged for some unknown reason, killed his wife and two children and then committed suicide. The dead, in addition to Boorman, as listed by police, his wife, Frances, sixty; a son, Francis, twenty-one; a daughter, Margaret, twenty-six.

Varsity Club Hear Varied Talks

Three Speakers Are Enjoyed; Scholarships Outlined

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "to talk of many things; of shoes and ships and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings."

The well-known lines from Alice in Wonderland came to mind at the meeting of the Victoria University Women's Club, held in the Victoria College last night, when the members heard varied talks on a variety of interesting subjects presented by several speakers. Miss Isabel Thomas spoke on "Sweden"; Miss Rene Grant, who spent the summer in England, on "The Festival of Poetry" at Oxford in July, and Mme. E. Sanderson-Mongin on "The Gobelins Tapestries" and Miss Mary Scott read an article on the Borsalino system, under which England is trying to rehabilitate young offenders.

SWEDEN PROSPEROUS

The co-operative system of doing business was one of the main factors contributing to Sweden's enviable position as one of the most prosperous nations in Europe, Miss Thomas contended. With more than one-third of the population enrolled in the movement, the co-operative stores are most efficiently run, and while open to all customers, only the shareholders participated in the profits.

Miss Thomas was also impressed by the character of the people, and the apparent "incorruptibility" of its politicians, which contributed not a little to its success. She described the adult education scheme, known as the Workers' Educational Association, under which 4,000,000 people were enrolled with 5,000 study groups, this condition making for an educated democracy.

Reference was also made to Sweden's neutrality during the Great War, which had left her unburdened by huge war debts and free from the tragic aftermath suffered by the combatant countries.

Vivid sketches of the contemporary poets who attended the Festival of Poetry in Oxford were given by Miss Grant, including John Masefield, Laurence Binyon, Austin Clarke, Lauchlin Currie, Wilfrid Wilson Gullie, and Walter de la Mare.

She also described the various competitions, notably those in choral speaking, and touched upon the sessions of the narrative poetry group, the satiric poetry group, the Bible group and the Shakespeare group, which she found interesting.

Mme. Sanderson-Mongin prefaced her talk on the famous Gobelins, Bayeux and Beauvais tapestries with a sketch of the history of tapestry manufacture and design from ancient Babylonian, Assyrian, Egyptian, Greek and Roman times down to the present illustrating her references to the earlier tapestries with quotations from the Old Testament.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

At the business session which preceded the talks, Dr. Olga Jardine, the president, spoke of the excellent scholarship scheme inaugurated by the Canadian federation, and financed by a per capita fee of $1 taken from each local fee of the 2,000 members in the federation.

To date fifteen graduates had been awarded travelling scholarships of $1,200 each and a new junior scholarship of $600 had also been started, open to all graduates in any Canadian university, Dr. Jardine noted.

For the travelling scholarships it had been decided to allocate these to science and arts graduates alternately.

Valentine Dance To Aid T.B. Work

Plans for a Valentine dance to be held at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on Shrove Tuesday, February 9, were made at a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's T.B. Pavilion yesterday afternoon at Vernon Villa, the vice-president, Miss Emily O'Brien in the chair.

Mrs. F. M. MacPherson will be the honorary convener. Mrs. W. McAllister and Mrs. L. Evenden will have charge of tickets and entertainment; Mrs. H. R. Green and Mrs. F. V. Thompson, decorations, and Mrs. Alex McDermott, refreshments.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the auxiliary or at Fletcher's music store.

Several new members were welcomed at the meeting. Sister Mary Fenton and the nurse-in-charge at Vernon Villa thanked the auxiliary and all who had helped to make the patients' Christmas such a happy one. Special thanks were given to the E. A. Morris Ltd., tobacconists, and to Watson's English Candy Company for their contributions towards Christmas cheer.

During the afternoon a china shower was held and a large quantity of beautiful china for the patients' trays was gratefully received by the sisters. Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

Ready to Play Ball

Little James G. Vey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Vey, 1619 Camosun Street, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Vey, 713 Vancouver Street, Victoria, and of Mr. and Mrs. J. Briggs, Tacoma, Wash.

Society

Mrs. Max Leiser, Oak Bay Avenue, and Mrs. Marion Clawson, Vancouver Street, went over to Seattle this afternoon to spend a few days there.

Mr. J. W. Ruggles, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Victoria, is among the managers attending the annual meeting in Toronto of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Justice W. G. McQuarrie of New Westminster, and Mrs. McQuarrie, came over from the mainland yesterday afternoon and are guests at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. George Patrick has returned to his home in Nanaimo after visiting in Victoria with Mrs. C. Marshall and her granddaughter, Miss Audrey Hadow, Linkless Avenue, Oak Bay.

This afternoon, at her home in the Uplands, Mrs. J. W. Ruggles was hostess at a "fatsig dinner" in his honor last night at the Union Club. The reception rooms were prettily arranged with early spring flowers.

Miss O'Dare Ronald, who has been spending the holidays in Winnipeg with her parents, returned to her home, 1033 Richmond Road, in her car yesterday to resume her studies at Strathcona Lodge School.

Miss Helen Colman entertained at the tea hour this afternoon at her home, 1033 Richmond Road, in honor of Mrs. A. J. Dureau, when a few of her friends were invited to bid her farewell on the eve of her departure to make her home in Vancouver.

Friends of Mr. Royden Morris entertained at a "fatsig dinner" in his honor last night at the Union Club, prior to his departure tonight for Vancouver, where his marriage to Miss Kathleen Anne McParlane will take place at St. Mary's Church, Kerrisdale, on Saturday.

Mr. J. Riddell, of the Owl Drug Co. is leaving the city for Vancouver, where he will make his home and join the staff of Ayerst McKenna and Harrison Ltd. of Montreal. As a farewell gift Mr. Riddell was presented with a leather travelling bag by the manager and staff of the Owl Drug Co., also Mr. Dick Jenkin.

Miss Kathleen Macfarlane of Vancouver, who is being much-feted by hostesses of the mainland city on the eve of her marriage to Mr. Royden Morris of Victoria, was the guest of honor at a tea given by Mrs. Kenneth Fraser and Miss Mary Stevenson yesterday afternoon, and at a bridge party given by Mrs. Dean Mansell last night.

Mrs. J. K. Rodger entertained a few out-of-town guests at the tea hour yesterday afternoon at the Empress Hotel. The tea table was centred with a beautiful bowl of fragrant pink hyacinths. The guests included Mrs. H. B. Yates (Montreal), Mrs. A. M. Smith (Chicago), Miss H. K. Smith (Chicago), Mrs. W. E. Manning (Winnipeg), Mrs. C. H. Mackenzie (London), Mrs. H. C. Stockton (Calgary), Mrs. J. M. Savage and Mrs. H. B. Jackson.

Animated by the desire to cater to all tastes and to vary the scope of programmes as much as possible, the management of the Empress Hotel has arranged for Miss Vivien Combe, well-known Victoria comedienne, to sing during the tea-hour on Saturday afternoon. Miss Combe has won an enviable reputation for her delightful burlesques on Old Country characters and for her Cockney songs, and she will sing several groups from her extensive repertoire on Saturday.

Malcolm More will act as her accompanist, and during the afternoon the hotel orchestra will play popular selections from the current musical shows and classical numbers.

Milk Doing Children Good

Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter's Work Much Appreciated By P.T.A.

Letters from Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson and from the James Bay and Okanagan Parent-Teacher Associations praising the excellent results being accomplished by the chapter in supplying milk for ill-nourished children in the city schools were received by the Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter at its meeting last night at the headquarters.

The letters from the two P.T.A. Associations contained donations: the Rotary Club a generous contribution, and donations were also gratefully received from Mrs. L. W. Talamy and Mrs. W. Walker. With this welcome assistance, and with an additional $15 from the chapter, it was decided to raise the monthly expenditure on milk to $90.

The chapter also voted $15 towards secondary education.

Mrs. J. W. Hudson, the regent, was re-elected to office by acclamation. The nominating committee appointed consisted of Mrs. U. M. Cullum, Mrs. F. G. Mulligan and Miss Scowcroft.

Mrs. William Ellis was nominated as national councillor and Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. F. E. Corby and Mrs. M. Cotte, provincial councillors.

Mrs. F. Beckett reported the sale of calendars. A gift of baby clothes and toys were sent to the Solarium at Christmas. The travelogue which was to have been held at the Central School at the end of the week, has been postponed on account of unforeseen circumstances.

Letters of thanks for Christmas hampers were received. Miss F. Simpson read one of Edna Jaques's poems, "Let Us Not Judge."

The annual meeting will be held at headquarters on February 6, after the monthly meeting, which starts at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. M. Cotte was asked to take charge of the tea arrangements.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

DO NOT RUSH BABY'S NORMAL DEVELOPMENT

Mother is always in a rush to urge baby into his next stage of development. She can't wait until he has teeth. She drags him up and pulls him around by his hands in the feeble attempt to teach him to walk. She wants to hurry him into baby clothes and arrive at the day when she can girdle the baby girl's twinkling with a baby ribbon.

The baby's own rate of development of these faculties is ignored in the mother's effort to push baby into personally satisfying, precocious behavior.

This is not only useless, it might be harmful. The mother has so many real responsibilities for the child's diet, of his need for plenty of freedom to move about and learn to use his muscles—that it is so unnecessary for her to assume the burden of teaching him how to develop.

That is one thing the baby possesses without teaching. Babies grow into a capacity for sitting up and nothing can hold them down. They begin to pull themselves to their feet and weave about upon them, no matter what our efforts to stop them. And when babies do these things of their own accord we may be sure they are strong enough—whatever their age—to do them.

Mrs. J. W. S. writes: "Please tell me whether a baby of three months should be allowed to stand? I always thought this had a tendency to weaken the lower limbs. The baby gets twenty-five ounces of milk, seven of water and three tablespoons of orange and prune juice."

When the baby is struggling to stand up in the time to allow it, but nothing could be gained by forcing such a small baby up onto his legs—in fact, bowed bones might be the result, since his bones are not ordinarily strong enough to bear his weight without curving.

His diet lacks cod liver oil and his formula lacks sugar, two notable omissions. Would you like the leaflet on "Sweet Milk Formulas" and "Feeding From Two to Nine Months" as an aid to improving the diet? It may be had for a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Elderd of the Your Baby and Mine Department of this newspaper.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Burnside P.T.A.—Burnside P.T.A. will hold the postponed meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the school. All members and parents are urged to attend.

Centennial W.M.S.—A well-attended meeting of the W.M.S. of the Centennial Church was held January 11. Mrs. J. W. Saunby gave the Bible reading, "Follow Me." An interesting Christian stewardship item on "Jesus Watches" was given by Mrs. A. H. S. Rogers, and chapter two of the study book was ably described by Mrs. Selveright on the educational work.

St. John's Guild—The annual meeting of St. John's Ladies' Guild was held on Monday with a large attendance. In the absence of the rector, Rev. G. R. Bolster took the chair. The resignation of Mrs. Tice, who had been president for five years, was accepted with regret, also that of Mrs. Batchelor, who had held the post of treasurer for seven. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Mrs. W. A. Patterson; first vice, Mrs. Deany; second vice, Mrs. Pulton; recording secretary, Mrs. Kirk; treasurer, Mrs. Swannell; purchasing committee, Miss Heisterman and Mrs. Stavert; social, Mrs. Melville Canon. Mrs. F. A. P. Chadwick wished the guild every success in the new year.

H.M.S. Resolution Chapter—Members of H.M.S. Resolution Chapter, I.O.D.E. met last evening at the home of the regent, Mrs. C. H. O'Halloran, Beach Drive. Mrs. E. L. McQueen, a new member, was welcomed. The treasurer reported that after all bills for the year had been paid, there remained a small balance in the bank. Mrs. L. A. Genge was nominated national councillor and Miss Jean McLaren, Mrs. O'Halloran and Mrs. J. S. Oliphant, provincial councillors. Plans were made for a Shrove Tuesday party to be held on February 9, details of which will be announced. The conveners will be Mrs. T. Steward, Mrs. Oliver Pauline and Miss McLaren. The members took the oath of allegiance to King George VI.

St. Luke's W.A.—The annual meeting of St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary, Cedar Hill, was held recently, when the following officers were elected for 1937: Honorary president, Mrs. S. Ryall; president, Mrs. Lytton; first vice-president, Mrs. Sifton; second vice-president, Mrs. Eastwood; treasurer, Mrs. Kingsberry; secretary, Mrs. Earle; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Watkins; Living Message, Mrs. Libby; extra cent, Mrs. House; united thank offering, Mrs. Maddock; Little Helpers, Mrs. Ryall; prayer partner, Mrs. Dunkey; educational secretary, Mrs. Truman; assistant secretary, Mrs. Lytton; girls' secretary, Mrs. Sifton; Junior W. A. secretary, Mrs. Bell; assistant W. A. secretary, Miss Hooper; social service, Mrs. Eastwood; delegates to annual, Mrs. Eastwood and Mrs. Truman. Encouraging reports were read by the secretary and the

Burns' Poem Will Be Lecture Theme

Rev. J. Richmond Craig will deliver an address based on Robert Burns' famous poem, "A Cotter's Saturday Night," in the Fairfield United Church, on Sunday evening.

Receiving many requests to give this address, which heretofore has drawn wide public interest when he has given it in Vancouver and Winnipeg, Mr. Craig will repeat it in honor of the immortal memory of Scotia's great bard.

Appropriate for the occasion is a special musical programme that has been arranged by Cyril C. Warren, organist and conductor, Mrs. Charles Goodwin soprano, will sing "My Ain Country," while a quartette comprising Miss Isabelle Pike (soprano), Miss Adeline Sangster (contralto), Lawrence Abbott (tenor) and J. C. Warren (bass), will sing "The Homeland."

The choir also will render a group of numbers suitable for the occasion.

Three-man Board Planned For Local Swimming League

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

IN GLANCING over the weekly statistics of the National Hockey League it is surprising to notice that one named Allan Shields, member of the New York Americans, is topping the penalty list. That is strange indeed. When this husky defenceman broke into the game he went along fairly quietly as a member of the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Maroons. The referees blew their whistles and waved him to the penalty bench now and again, but his rests with the timekeeper were not frequent.

Through the same seasons the men in white were continually after such noted offenders as Eddie Shore, Nels Stewart, Babe Siebert, Vernon Ayres and Red Horner, not to mention a couple of wild-swinging coaches. A few of the old-timers have left the jurisdiction of the N.H.L. Not so long ago, when St. Louis had a team in the big time, Irving Frew won himself some thing of a reputation by scoring two points through a season in which he spent eight-and-a-half minutes in the cooler. This record didn't balance, so Frew skated backwards to the minors.

Ayres is now a member of the Philadelphia Ramblers, so does not qualify for the N.H.L. penalty records. But what of Red Horner? What about "Bad Man" Eddie Shore? What about those coaches? It is sadly suspected that Mister Horner has been handed some advice that is keeping him from being a big link in the chain of "bad men." Of course, King Clancy has put away his skates in moth balls, and that out down the supply of belligerency among the Toronto crowd, but Horner always seemed to have more than enough to go around.

For "Bad Man" Eddie Shore it may be said that he has a passable excuse for infrequent appearance. In duration of his career, Shore has had much chance to commit assault and battery and malicious mischief on skates. He had a salary debate that delayed his appearance in the penalty box at the start of the season and later on he developed a sore back that kept him off the ice. The report is that he swung at a visiting neck and missed it, wrenching several important muscles in this well-meant attempt.

Certainly it isn't to be expected that "Bad Man" Shore will idle about on skates while a mild giant like Allan Shields rises to fame as the real Rough Rider of the rink. It's only fair to give Eddie time to give his stuff. And the referee will do him time and a half if they catch him at it.

There is little to be said for Babe Siebert and Charley Conacher except that the spirit of reform seems to have seized them. Not so with Big Conacher. The old Lionel still has the fighting spirit that used to lead him charging into every fray in the vicinity, but the truth is that Lionel has slowed up. Most of the fights are over before he can reach the hot spot.

For a young fellow, practically a freshman, Neil Colville of the Rangers is attaining prominent notice on the crime calendar. Allan Shields has a long lead, but Neil is in the thick of the pursuing group of delinquents and may go through the season as the chief offender in a Ranger uniform.

It seems that Neil came up with a flashy reputation and some of the veterans of the league decided to find out whether or not the reputation was only skin deep. To do that, they had to get under his skin. In hockey, this operation usually is performed with the butt end of a stick. Neil underwent a number of such operations that were more or less successful, and initiated at least an equal number of counter-operations of the same kind.

He found this give-and-take pleasant enough, but unfortunately the referees halted him ever and anon and ushered him to the calaboose to serve various sentences.

Wednesday Soccer Matches Cancelled

Owing to the unplayable condition of the grounds, the three Wednesday Football League matches scheduled for this afternoon were called off.

Accord Expected Under New Setup; Club Names Coach

New Coach

RALPH ALCOCK who was appointed coach of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at its meeting last night, will start his duties at the Crystal Garden, Friday evening when swimmers of that club open their training schedule under their new mentor.

Bob Hibberson, Charlie Hopper and Allan Maclean Suggested as Leaders

Ralph Alcock To Train Swimmers

Victoria's swimming fraternity faced 1937 with renewed hope of co-operative effort today. Virtually assured of a united front in which the Y.M.C.A., the V.A.S.C. and the Pacific Swimming Club will play equal parts under the direction of an independent board of advisers and organizers, the aquatic lists awaited a definite announcement from the provincial section. C.A.S.A. court of inquiry which poured oil on the local troubled waters in lengthy week-end sessions.

Subject to an official statement from A. H. J. Swensky and G. Beddoes Smith, provincial section officials, and the almost certain approval of the local swimming groups, Victoria swimmers will operate under a three-man board of R. W. "Bob" Hibberson, Charlie Hopper and Allan Maclean.

Approached by the commissioners during their visit here, the three Victorians who are not affiliated directly with any of the local clubs, stated their willingness to head the Vancouver Island Swimming League, if they were desired by the city clubs.

NAME NEW COACH
As preparations went ahead for the new league, setup, the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club announced officially the resignation of Coach Colin McPadden and the appointment of Ralph Alcock as his successor. The appointment was made at last night's meeting of the club.

"We have agreed to accept the findings of the Vancouver commissioners and look forward confidently to a year of co-operation with the other clubs in town," George I. Warren, president of the V.A.S.C., stated. The club's decisions regarding acceptance of the findings, and the appointment of a new coach were reached unanimously, Mr. Warren said.

Questioned today on the proposal to take over the work of leading the league, Bob Hibberson emphasized the fact he and his two colleagues were prepared to accept that responsibility but in no way wished their action to be taken as any criticism of Frank Hyslop's leadership of the league.

"There is no doubt at all that Frank has done a great deal for swimming here and his work has been deeply appreciated," Mr. Hibberson said. He had accepted the suggestion to stand for office in the hope of averting further friction and in the interests of swimming only, he said.

JUVENILE SOCCER

Juvenile soccer matches scheduled for Saturday are as follows:
First Division
Britannia Branch Cubs vs. Hill's Corner, Heywood Avenue; referee, E. Borde.

Second Division
Strawberry Vale vs. Oak Bay Rovers, Hampton Road; referee, C. MacDonald.

Fourth Division
Blue Birds vs. Victoria Athletic Club, Royal Athletic Park; referee, Terry Peters.

Kick-offs at 10.30 o'clock.

champion Freddie Steele.

Steele will be at the ringside.

Afterwards he will decide whether he prefers to risk his newly-won crown against the winner "five Eddie."

"Babe" Risko, Syracuse, a chance to win it back, or cook up a match with Jimmy McFarlin, the belting Celt from Vancouver.

Al's victory shattered Fisher's record of never having been knocked out.

Fisher weighed 169½; Hosnak 155½. Billy Buxton, Victoria, 152½; Featherweight, dropped Chief Tolteco, Mexico City, for the ten-count in the second round of the six scheduled in the semi-final.

Frank Lembo, San Francisco light-weight, won a four-round decision over Al Ford, Vancouver, B.C. Bonnie Beaudin, Vancouver, lightweight, a decision over Jack Wolwek, Seattle.

FROZEN GUN AND RAGING COUGAR PROVIDE THRILLS

Chris Behnson Has Some Exciting Moments in Tracking Down Mother and Four Cubs at Shawngnan Lake; Collects $100 in Bounties

In town yesterday morning, four little cougar cubs—too small and young to be thought as harshly of as their marauding elders—peered out of their box prison to get their last glimpse of daylight into which they arrived not more than a week or two ago, for they were killed by their captor for the $20 bounty on each of their tiny heads.

However, the cubs passed on to their happy hunting ground with the kept gully around Jarvis Lake, situated about 2,500 feet above sea level in the Shawngnan Lake district, where they found the mother standing guard over her den.

The dogs went after the cubs' parent, but she refused to be treed and started to scuffle with the hounds. It was a cold day, and Behnson discovered to his surprise that the mechanism of his gun had frozen and he could not get the breach open to push in a bullet.

The dogs were attacking the mother fiercely, and fur was flying freely. She slaved off their attacks, however, and held her ground, refusing to take to a tree.

Behnson, during this time was working furiously on his gun, and was finally able to open the breach far enough to slip a bullet into the chamber. He feared for the safety of his dogs, but drew a careful bead on the cougar and fired. The bullet got the cat in the mouth.

The odds against her were too great now, so she streaked for a tall tree and climbed nearly to the top. Behnson pumped two more shots at her, but they did not seem to have much telling effect. She started descending, and when within twenty feet of the ground the hunter fired again. The cat jumped to the ground, ran for fifty feet, then stopped and rolled over on her side. She was dead.

The dogs back-tracked and found the den. Their baying brought Behnson back, and upon investigation he found the four cubs. Dead the cubs mean $80 to the hunter, alive they are useless. Behnson will get $100 from bounties altogether.

The dogs were a little scratched from their tussle with the cougar.

Re-elected President of Athletic Club For Third Successive Term

To begin his third term as president, Jack Wormald was re-elected head of the Tillicum Athletic Club yesterday evening at its annual meeting.

An increase in membership featured the annual reports submitted by retiring officers and members of the directorate which told of a successful season brought to a close. In every branch of the club there was a decided improvement, the reports showed.

The financial statement was presented by F. B. Richardson, secretary-treasurer, showing the club's finances to be in excellent shape. Thanks to the officials were extended by the members.

The complete staff of officers follows: Honorary president, John Day; president, Jack Wormald; vice-president, Bob Vipond; committee chairman, house, Dave Hurdle; utility,

Dominoes Meet Caps Tonight

The Capitals will be given a last chance for a comeback tonight when they meet Dave Nicks' Dominoes in the sixth game of the current season's race for the city senior A men's basketball laurels at the high school gym. To head a three-game programme, if the Dominoes win, they have taken the last five matches. It means that the title will fall into their hands. If the caps win the series will be prolonged another game.

Regents and Kingham-Gillespie will take the floor at 7:30 o'clock in the opening fray, which will be followed by a battle between the Unities and Cardinals, women's squads.

Telegraph Briefs

GRIDDER MAY LOSE HAND
Kingston, Ont., Jan. 13.—Victor "Ruffy" Griffiths, University student who starred with Toronto Argonauts interprovincial football team, may never play football again.

It is feared he may lose the use of his right hand following injuries by a piece of glass which cut his wrist badly, severing tendons and arteries. He was taken to Kingston General Hospital.

BALL FANS GET BREAK
Los Angeles, Jan. 13.—Bleacher fans of the Pacific Coast League may rejoice. They can see a baseball game this year for twenty-five cents.

Directors of the league voted the "go-bit" price, a reduction of fifteen cents from last year, in a meeting here yesterday.

The Shaughnessy play-off system likewise was approved providing for the four leading clubs at the end of the season to battle it out for the championship and a purse of $10,000.

MCCOY VS. LOUIS
Portland, Me., Jan. 13.—Al McCoy, New England heavy-weight boxer of French-Canadian descent, bled last night a bout with Joe Louis, probably at Boston, in July, was "virtually clinched."

NATIONAL GOLF AT OTTAWA
Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Directors of the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club have accepted an invitation from the Canadian Amateur Golf Association to hold the Canadian championship tournament on the local course, it was learned last night.

It is understood the association invites several clubs and then it makes a final decision as to which club will be awarded the event. Announcement in this respect will be made subsequently when dates for the tourney will also be disclosed.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Jan. 13.—Joseph McCarthy, fifty-five, former big league baseball player, died in a hospital here yesterday following an illness.

He entered baseball with Syracuse Stars of the international league in 1907 and went to the Piedmont League in 1909 as a first baseman.

From the Piedmont League he went with St. Louis Cardinals and later with New York Yankees.

Palm Springs, Calif., Jan. 13.—Samuel Untermyer, New York; president of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, declared today the organization was boycotting the proposed Max Schmeling-Jimmy Braddock heavy-weight fight because "Schmeling would take his share of the money back to Germany."

"We are not boycotting the fight itself," said Untermyer.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Ellsworth Vines, tennis star, who has been confined in a hospital since Sunday with influenza, made plans last night to resume his professional tour with Fred Perry, British ace, at Pittsburgh on Friday night.

Jimmy Todd, sport, Fred Ramsdale and Jimmy R. Tillyer.

Grid Training School

Winnipeg, Jan. 13.—The Winnipeg Rugby Club, Canadian rugby football champions in 1935, put the "accent on youth" today in its plans for 1937, which include a determined effort to regain the Grey Cup.

Winnipeggers were knocked out of the western finals last year by Regina Rough Riders, and there was no east-west play-off for the cup.

Retiring from the club's presidency at the seventh annual meeting

New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks Register Decisive Wins in N.H.L.; High-flying Canadians Trim Detroit Red Wings 4 to 1

Perhaps Toronto Maple Leafs won't find it so easy to make those playoffs after all. Almost everyone counted them in when New York Americans hit the skids.

But the keep-punching boys have bounced right back into the picture and threaten to make it too interesting for Conny Smythe's hired men. Last night Amerks whipped Montreal Maroons 4 to 0 in New York.

While doing it they looked something very much like the team that burned up the league a few weeks ago and the victory brought them within half a game of the idle Leafs, Lorne Chabot, replacing the injured Roy Worters in the nets, scored a mastery shutout and may make the difference between the playoffs and elimination for the New Yorkers.

Another cellar team showed nicely last night when Chicago Black Hawks downed Bruins 4 to 2 in Boston. The win was their sixth in twenty-three games. They now are seven points behind Bruins.

Canadiens regained their six-point lead over Maroons atop the Canadian division standing when they defeated Detroit Red Wings 4 to 1 in Montreal. Overtaking an early Detroit lead, they won easily with their usual relentless backchecking.

BREAK BAD STREAK

The Americans win broke a string of twelve defeats in thirteen games. Tommy Anderson gave them a lead in the first period and Lorne Carr and Happy Emms tapped in others in the second. In the third, Art Chapman broke through for another goal.

Hawks played cagey hockey before 9,000 persons, smallest crowd in a long while at Boston. Bruins' Red Beattie tied up the game less than two minutes after Chicago had taken a lead through Glen Brydson's goal in the first period, but Mush March got them back the advantage in that frame and they were not in danger again.

March scored again in the third, and when Ray Gettiffe got Boston's second Brydson came back with another goal to make it safe.

Ebbie Goodfellow, wing defenceman, got Detroit's only goal at Montreal and it was the first of the game. George Mantha evened it up in the first period. George Brown and Johnny Gagnon scored in the second and Dizzy Desjais got another in the third.

The expected duel of high-scoring forward lines was not staged. Howie Morenz, Aurel Joliat and Gagnon were in fine fettle but Herb Lewis is ill with influenza, and Johnny Sorrell worked with Larry Aurie and Marty Barry.

Summaries follow:

GREATEST OF PIONEER SCOTS

Sir James Douglas Subject of Address to Burns Club

"Sir James Douglas was one of the greatest Empire builders in British history," declared B. A. McKelvie in an interesting address on "Sir James Douglas, the Chief Scottish Pioneer," to a large gathering of members of the Burns Club yesterday evening in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

In explaining this statement, Mr. McKelvie compared Douglas with Clive of India in eventual accomplishment, but pointed out the latter had achieved results by means which had somewhat tarnished the pages of history, whereas Douglas had achieved historical greatness by far less spectacular methods but nevertheless equally efficient.

"The fact that today Vancouver Island is under the British flag, is the most part, due to the work of Sir James Douglas," declared Mr. McKelvie. Although we realize his greatness in this respect, future generations will evaluate his work even more," he added.

A brief history of his birth, boyhood and youth preceded the more interesting part of the address. Born in Lanark, Scotland, in 1803, Douglas came to America in 1818 to enter the service of the Northwest Company, then the only rival of the Hudson's Bay Company. In 1825 Douglas was sent west to New Caledonia, then the more or less unexplored district from just north of the present city of Kamloops to the north pole, where he was assigned as a clerk to Fort St. James. These early days of hardship laid the foundation for a stable character, Mr. McKelvie declared.

While at Fort St. James, Douglas married and in 1830 was sent to the Columbia district where he was finally chosen to take charge of that section of the territory of the Hudson's Bay Company. In 1835 Douglas was made chief trader, and in 1840 he was promoted to the position of chief factor, a high office in the company.

His responsibilities had greatly increased by this time and he successfully negotiated the treaty of Alaska by the company and handled important business in California.

VICTORIA FOUNDED

Realizing the intention of the United States government to cut off British America from the Pacific Ocean, the Hudson's Bay Company sent Douglas to Vancouver Island, and in 1843 he superintended the building of Fort Victoria, a stockade and buildings measuring 300 feet wide and 350 feet long. In 1849 Vancouver Island was created a crown colony by Queen Victoria and following the unsuccessful term of Bligh as governor, Douglas took over that office. From then to the time of his retirement twenty years later, Douglas was the guiding spirit of Vancouver Island.

The gold rush of 1851 to the Queen Charlotte Islands and later the gold rush to the upper reaches of the Fraser River were alike handled successfully by Douglas in regard to law and order.

Displaying a wealth of sound common sense, Governor Douglas, alone, handled the many acute situations which arose during his term of office.

Running all through his term of office, Douglas was a decided humanist. Mr. McKelvie said. This was illustrated when out of his own pocket he aided the settlers of the State of Washington in supplying them with the necessary implements to drive back a dangerous invasion of the Indians of that territory that threatened the lives of the pioneers.

PROGRAMME

Pipe Major Donald Cameron opened the programme with a group of three selections on the bagpipes. Others who contributed to the programme were Mrs. H. Tate, Scotch songs; Tom Crabbe, vocal solos; and Miss Jessie Pollock, Highland dances. Miss Jessie Smith was accompanist.

Welcomed as new members to the club were H. M. McGovern and A. H. Cox, and as a visitor, K. J. Scott, of Edmonton.

It was announced the annual dinner of the club would be held in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel on January 25 at 7 o'clock. W. B. Grant presided.

ENDORSE MOVE ON ORIENTALS

Extension of Franchise Strongly Opposed By Pro Patria Branch

Endorsement of the action taken by their delegates in supporting a resolution protesting against the granting of franchise to Orientals, as drawn up at a session of the Defence of Canada League, held December 17, was given yesterday evening at a general meeting of the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion.

A committee was formed to bring in suggestions for the renovation of the auditorium and make arrangements for suitable quarters for the women's auxiliary.

The following nominations for the 1937 slate of officers were received: President, J. Watkinson, A. E. Hull, E. E. Fox and T. W. L. Mutch; first vice-president, D. Randall and J. W. McNeill; second vice-president, J. Simpson, J. P. Collins, E. E. King and E. F. Fox; chairman of finance committee, J. Fox, T. J. W. Hick and T. Goes to Toronto For Convention

P. H. Winn, Local Manager of Tip Top Tailors, to See New Styles

Leaving Victoria today, P. H. Winn, manager of the local branch of Tip Top Tailors Limited, will attend a convention of all Tip Top store managers to be held in Royal York Hotel, Toronto, for four days, beginning January 17.

Returning properly, as evidenced by an increased demand for their clothes, has prompted Tip Top Tailors now in their twenty-seventh year, to extend their country-wide operations. The four-day convention will serve as a general get-together of Tip Top executives with their managers, at which plans for the coming season will be unfolded. The men will also be shown an advanced exhibit of the new season's fabrics and style trends.

There will be a series of talks and discussions dealing with many subjects affiliated with the clothing business in general. Emphasized will be a complete analysis of the styles, models and fabrics which fashion authorities have indicated will be the coming season's trends. Realizing the importance of the style idea in men's clothing, which each year becomes more apparent, Tip Top Tailors have this year made exhaustive research and study in every fashion-centre of the world. In order to impress upon their store managers the far-reaching importance of their findings and to show them the results, so that they may better inform their customers, Tip Top Tailors have called their managers together.

Among the Tip Top executives who will address the convention are D. Dunkelman, president; M. MacKechie, general manager, and A. M. Talbot, general sales manager.

Radio Manager At High School

W. E. Gladstone Murray Speaks on Significance of Broadcasting

The universality and yet the intimacy of radio, and the power of Canadian broadcasting as a world peace factor, were explained to 900 students at Victoria High School this morning by W. E. Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

A radio was in nearly every home in the civilized world, Mr. Murray said. About 800,000,000 receiving sets were in use. Received in intimate circles and with a personal interest to the listener, broadcasts were a great responsibility to those in charge.

Detailing the three major broadcasting plans, he said the United States radio interests, though commercial, were not devoid of conscience in public service, and did the best they could under difficult circumstances. In Italy, Russia and so many, radio was part of the state system, but in the British Empire it was under remote control of the trustees of the people.

WELCOMES CRITICISM

"It has sometimes been suggested that there is too much criticism of Canadian broadcasting," Mr. Murray said. "I disagree. Criticism is altogether healthy as long as it is constructive. Our task is impossible without the co-operation and goodwill of the people."

Much more than entertainment and education entered into Canadian broadcasting, he said. Canada, with no international grievances, had a big part to take in world affairs.

"The voice of Canada might be a determining factor in world affairs, and will be heard not so much through diplomatic channels, as through radio. If the C.B.C. carries the authentic voice of Canada during the next twenty years, it may be the

Surveyors To Meet Tomorrow

B.C.L.S. to Begin Two-day Session Annual Meeting Tomorrow

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Corporation of British Columbia land surveyors will open tomorrow morning and continue till Friday in the Chamber of Commerce.

All present officials include President O. B. N. Wilkie, Vice-president H. McL. Elliott, Secretary-treasurer A. S. G. Musgrave and the following members of the board: G. K. Burnett, A. J. Campbell, W. G. McElhanney, A. O. Noakes and F. C. Underhill, and ex-officio, P. C. O'Brien, surveyor-general, and G. P. Fountain, past president.

The programme for the two-day session will be as follows:

Thursday morning—Minutes of preceding annual meeting, financial statement for 1936, president's address, scrutineers counting ballots for 1937 executive and informal discussions of land survey problems.

Thursday afternoon—Election ballot results, land survey problems, remarks and suggestions by Okanagan and Kootenay representatives, general revision of by-laws, discussion by F. C. Green on the Mineral Act; annual dinner, Pacific Club at 7 o'clock.

Friday morning—Committee reports, historical and biographical, Frank Swannell; revision of statutes, J. T. Underhill; professional engineers contact, John Davidson; "An Introduction to the New Land Surveyors Act," G. P. Fountain, and discussion on proposed regulations under the Land Registry Act.

Friday afternoon—"The Path of the Polar," R. P. Bishop; "Survey Reminiscences," Col. J. S. Dennis, D.T.S.; "Land Registry Sidelights," H. J. Crane; "A B.C.L.S. in the Witness Box," A. D. Crease.

DEAN PARK TO BE DEVELOPED

Development of John Dean Park, an eighty-three acre tract at Mount Newton, is planned as one of the provincial government's forestry development projects, it was announced today.

The FDP administration also plans improvements at the Victoria-owned Thetis Lake property. K. C. McCannell, superintendent, went to the area yesterday with Mayor Andrew McGavin, Alderman John Worthington and G. M. Irvine, city engineer. They discussed proposals for building trails and fireguards, removing slash and snags and downed timber. A further inspection of the area, which covers about 1,300 acres, will be made by forestry experts Saturday.

At John Dean Park a camp of fifty men will be located to prepare the area for a recreational centre. This will involve construction of fire trails around the boundary, bridge paths and the development of springs for drinking water.

This park was donated to the provincial government in 1921 by John Dean of Victoria, for use in perpetuity as a public park. Since that time nothing very much has been done to develop it.

Another new forest project announced today was at Harrison Lake, where thirteen miles of trail will be built, fireguards put in and the forest cleared.

NEWS IN BRIEF

An executive meeting of the Naval Veterans will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Premier Pattullo, who crossed to Vancouver last night, is expected back in Victoria Friday.

The Victoria and Island Land Underwriters' Association will hold its annual meeting in Spencer's dining-room on Friday, at noon. Election of officers will take place and reports will be given.

A two-act play by Gwendoline Harper and Edgar Holloway will be presented by the Victoria Musical Art Society Wednesday, January 13, at the Empress Hotel at 8:30 p.m. Admission to non-members 50c.

The Army and Navy Veterans in Canada will hold its annual general meeting in their headquarters on January 21, when election of officers will take place. It will start at 8 o'clock and a full attendance of members is requested.

The Victoria West Liberal Social Club held its weekly progressive 500 card party yesterday evening in the clubrooms, Skinner Street. Prizes went to Mrs. Orchin, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Pearce, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Waters, Mr. Holmes and Mr. Miller.

The annual general meeting of the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion will be held in the clubrooms, corner of Johnson and Broad Streets, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The chief business will be the selection of the 1937 slate of officers.

With Pearl Findlay in the chair, the regular meeting of the Victoria City Temple Y.P.S. held a very successful evening in the Empire Ball Room. Short talks were given by Pearl and Elsie Findlay, Fred Pierce, Ernie Coleman and Andy Swallow on "My Job." The next meeting is in charge of Jack Lacey.

The midseason meeting of the Fernwood Cribbage Club was held yesterday evening in the Empire Ball Room. Reports of the managing committee, Dave Stewart and Jim Ferguson, were received. The club, which plays several challenge games each season, will consider challenges from other cribbage clubs in the city.

Thieves who entered the office of the Kirk Coal Company overnight ransacked the premises, but took nothing, according to a city police report. Entrance was gained by forcing bars on a rear window. The entry was discovered by Constables L. Callan and W. Munro while making the regular nightly rounds.

Henry L. Ewing, 500 Transit Road, suffered a cut over the forehead when he was knocked down by a car while crossing the intersection of Yates and Douglas Streets yesterday, according to a city police report. The report stated Mr. Ewing walked in front of a car driven by H. L. Ramsey, 1630 Store Street. He was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, where Dr. R. Watson attended him.

Alan G. Horsfield was appointed treasurer and assistant secretary of the Vancouver Island District headquarters of the Social Credit League of B.C. at a meeting of the executive held last week. This appointment completes the organization of the headquarters, the officers now being as follows: Chairman, Major A. H. Jukes; assistant chairman, R. J. Atkins; first vice-chairman, Capt. J. Bowen-Colthurst; second vice-chairman, Mrs. Edwin Knudsvig; secretary, J. W. Higham; assistant secretary and treasurer, A. G. Horsfield; director of publicity, F. H. Dunne; and librarian, E. E. Unicorn. The executive of the Victoria Constituency Association is as follows: Chairman, P. E. George; secretary, A. G. Horsfield; Ward chairmen, One, E. Unicorn; Two, P. E. George; Three, E. Knudsvig; Four, A. S. Averill; and Five, Lt. Col. Mesiter. Headquarters of both the Island District and Victoria Association are at 224, Pemberton Building.

Policing Question Only Saanich Issue

MAN IS HELD UP AT SIDNEY

Sidney, Jan. 13.—Emerging from the bush skirting Roberts Bay on Third Street, Sidney, about 6:30 yesterday evening, a masked man accosted J. F. Simister and demanded him to "stick 'em up."

Mr. Simister was on his way home from his drygoods store on Beacon Avenue when the incident occurred. He did not comply with the demand but began to reason with the man, whereupon the bandit seized his arms, apparently meaning to use violence. Shouting for help, Mr. Simister alarmed his assailant who fled into the bush. It was the work undoubtedly of an amateur and no evidence of firearms was given. The assailant was a tall young man with face partly covered by a cloth. The provincial police are investigating.

PROGRESS IN LAND SCHEME

"I am glad to read in press dispatches from Ottawa that suggestions for controlled immigration will probably be discussed at Ottawa during the present session of parliament," said Brig.-Gen. W. L. Hornby of Lethbridge, at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Brig.-Gen. Hornby is the driving force in the movement for financing immigration to Canada. He is back in the city to confer with government officials on his proposal to establish community settlements for the placing of selected British immigrants on the land.

"I cannot help noticing, however, that there runs through the press dispatches on the subject a small current of doubt as to whether new immigration will not add to present unemployment," continued Brig.-Gen. Hornby.

"The contrary is the case. Controlled immigration, if it is properly financed, will create employment. As to this there is no shadow of doubt, in the city to confer with government officials on his proposal to establish community settlements for the placing of selected British immigrants on the land.

THREE OUT IN WARD FOUR

Ex-councillor Fred Borden will oppose the return of the present incumbent, John Watson, in Ward One. In Ward Three three candidates will seek the vacancy created by the resignation of Constable W. E. Woods. They are: George Austin, W. N. Goldie and John Shelley. The two last named were unsuccessful aspirants in former years.

Mr. Oliver has also taken part in municipal politics before, having been an unsuccessful opponent to Councillor H. D. Coton two years ago.

In a statement on his platform he said he felt the council had not indicated it was going to make any definite gain by the new assessment scheme. Being a heavy municipal taxpayer he feels it his duty to take an active part in municipal affairs.

Ten or eleven years ago an assessor was appointed to consider expenses, and about two years ago the municipal assessor changed the whole assessment roll again," he said. "The results have proved of no benefit to farmers who are being gradually taxed out of their holdings. I think the time has come when the farm land tax should be put on an equitable basis, so as to make it more encouraging for the youth of the community to stay and work on the farm. Under the present system of taxation in Saanich, land values have been lowered to about half the price it costs to clear it."

CROUCH UNOPPOSED

Reeve Crouch, it appears will be again returned by acclamation, to add another year to his all-time record in Saanich having held the post for eleven consecutive years.

There also appears to be little opposition to the present school trustees who are seeking re-election, William Tomes and Capt. Nathaniel Gray. A complete schedule of election meetings has been prepared for next week, and things are not expected to warm up much until they are held.

Reeve Crouch made no definite stand on the police issue yet but if he is tackled on the election platform it is expected he will announce himself in favor of the municipal department. He has defended it in other election campaigns and from his statements at council meetings he has indicated he can see no real saving to Saanich by having the provincial police take over.

ESQUIMALT

The Esquimalt situation is awaiting the meeting this evening at which the ratepayers' association will nominate its standard bearer.

Reeve Alex Lockley is being opposed for re-election by Councillor Fred Eaton, an active member of the council for the last couple of years. Albert Heald is the only one of the retiring councillors to announce his intention of seeking return, while Councillor T. Harry Hodgson has definitely withdrawn.

Stanley R. Bowden, a familiar figure on the Esquimalt Police Commission for many years, will seek return to the seat from which he was deposed two years ago by G. H. Kinch. Mr. Kinch is also withdrawing from municipal politics this year.

Trustees Mrs. Sarah King and Major G. H. Simaan will seek return on the school board, while by-election for a one-year term will be necessary owing to the resignation of Trustee James Erick. Mrs. Jessie McFarlane, a former trustee, will also be in the field.

Obituary

AGNES WADDELL

Mrs. Agnes Waddell of 1921 Stanley Avenue passed away yesterday after a long illness, aged eighty years. She was born in Scotland and had been a resident of this city for thirty years. The remains are resting at the Thomson Funeral Home, where the funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. Mackie Niven will conduct the service. Interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

CHARLOTTE G. L. LUSCOMBE

At the family residence, 1527 Amelia Street, the death occurred last night of Charlotte Grace Leslie Turner, widow of Thomas Luscombe and the fifth daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Turner, Montreal. Born in Montreal on March 9, 1848, Mrs. Luscombe came to Victoria thirty-nine years ago from Toronto. She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. B. Hemmings, Miss Ann Curtis Luscombe and Mrs. C. R. Graham; three sons, William Thomas, San Francisco; Peter T. Victoria, and Thomas George, of Bethel, Alaska. Funeral services will be private and will be announced later by Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co.

WILLIAM JOHN SANDERS

William John Sanders, registrar of vital statistics at Hazelton, B.C., passed away yesterday, according to word received in the city last night. Mr. Sanders was born in Mariposa, Ont., in 1865, and came to British Columbia in 1885. He was general-at-large in the Legislature during Sir Richard McBride's regime. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Fletcher, Victoria, and Mrs. A. D. Miller, and a brother, S. B. Sanders, both residing at Regina.

GORDON L. NEWCOMB

Funeral services were held in Vancouver this afternoon for Gordon L. Newcomb, former Victorian, who died recently from injuries received in an auto accident at Woodburn, Ore. Mr. Newcomb was the only son of the late Capt. Holmes Newcomb, former captain of the St. Malaspina, and Mrs. Newcomb of Edmonton, formerly of Victoria, and is also survived by an uncle, Capt. J. M. Newcomb of this city. He was in the employ of Leuca Company, in Portland, Ore., and shortly before his untimely death had been promoted to the firm's branch in Chicago.

THOMAS ALEXANDER BRADY

A wealth of beautiful flowers from friends throughout Canada as well as in Victoria marked the private funeral services held this afternoon for Thomas Alexander Brady, who passed away on Monday night at St. Joseph's Hospital. Rev. W. G. Williams, D.D., conducted the simple service, and the only music was the organ voluntary, "Andantino" (Leymare). The pallbearers were: F. W. Francis, W. A. Davis, F. C. Patterson, H. A. Porter, D. K. Kennedy and A. J. Sommer. Interment was in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

SARAH M. MCGREGOR

In the presence of a large congregation, which included a delegation from Court Triumph A.O.P., funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Sarah McGregor, who passed away on Saturday last. Rev. Dr. Clem Davies officiated and the hymns sung were "Abide With Me" and "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The pallbearers were: C. Pearson, Inspector Robert Owen, Alderman J. Worthington, W. P. Werthington, J. Speed and H. Brown. The casket and hearse were covered with many beautiful floral tributes. Interment was in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

WM. PERCY VOSPER

The funeral of William Percy Vosper, who passed away on Friday, took place yesterday afternoon. Rev. Alan Gardner officiated. The service was largely attended by relatives and friends, including brother members of St. West Victoria Lodge No. 1 K. of P. and members of Island Temple No. 8 Elythian Sisters. The many beautiful flowers, testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Vosper was held. The hymns sung were: "There Is No Night in Heaven" and "On the Resurrection Morn." The following acted as pallbearers: J. H. Temple, S.P.O.; J. Emery, S.P.O.; T. J. Mannette, C.P.O.; O.C.; J. W. Rose, P.O.; S.T.D.; W. G. Buckingham, V.C. P.O.; and H. Ocken. Ch.P.T. Past Chancellor; Commander J. M. Hughes acted as prelate; Past Chancellor Commander A. A. Hockley as chancellor; commander; and Stephen Carter as vice-chancellor. The casket and hearse were covered with many beautiful floral tributes. Interment was in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

WALTER NEWELL WESTON

Walter Newell Weston, leader of the Victoria Truth Centre, passed away early this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he had been a patient for the last two weeks.

Mr. Weston was born in Massachusetts, U.S.A., seventy-five years ago, and came to Victoria four years ago from San Francisco to take over the leadership of Unity Centre, which had its headquarters on Fort Street. When Unity Centre was amalgamated with the New Thought Temple four years ago under the new name of the Victoria Truth Centre, Mr. Weston became the leader of the new group, and under his able guidance the movement made much progress during the last three years.

He had no relatives here, and is survived by a daughter-in-law and one grandchild in San Francisco, and a son-in-law and three grandchildren in New Jersey, U.S.A. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

W. E. GLADSTONE MURRAY

Manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, will speak at 6:45 o'clock tomorrow evening at three grand stations C.P.T. Between 8:15 and 8:45 o'clock C.P.T. will broadcast an address on "University Education and Its Cost," by Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education.

W. H. Carr took over the acting presidency of the Saanich Conservative Association at a meeting in the Campbell Building last night when the resignation of Brian Hoole, as president was accepted with regret. Organization plans were discussed and Leslie F. Osborne, the party's candidate in Saanich, spoke in this connection.

W. H. CARR TOOK OVER

The license would be granted for a community-owned station supported solely by public subscription, and presenting programmes free of any commercial announcements. Mr. Morley stated.

Theft of an electric fan motor from the Ogden Point worsted mill was reported to city police yesterday.

APPEAL JUDGES' VIEWS DIFFER

An exchange of words between Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice McQuarrie took place in British Columbia Court of Appeal bench today when Mr. Justice McQuarrie dissociated himself from the statements of Mr. Justice Martin on an authority cited in the case at bar.

"I wish to disassociate myself with Mr. Justice Martin's remarks. I do not think it is up to me to criticize the Supreme Court of Canada," Mr. Justice McQuarrie said.

At Mr. Justice Martin's request, Mr. Justice McQuarrie repeated his remarks.

"I'm very glad you do," Mr. Justice Martin replied. He was sorry, he said, that Mr. Justice McQuarrie construed his remarks as a criticism of the Supreme Court of Canada.

"I'm afraid I cannot simplify my explanation to a point where you could understand it," Mr. Justice Martin commented.

"I thought you would say that," Mr. Justice McQuarrie replied.

Mr. Justice McQuarrie did not concur with Mr. Justice Martin's point on the authority cited.

Says Statement Not Admissible

"Dying Declaration" Out of Order, Counsel Maintains in Manslaughter Appeal

Admissibility of a "dying declaration" signed by Phyllis Velocette, who died following a fatal attempt at abortion, was contested by A. G. Duncan Cruz, counsel for the appellant, as the appeal of Mrs. Jean McIntosh, forty-seven-year-old Dunbar Heights mother, from six years' sentence on a Vancouver manslaughter conviction continued before the B.C. Court of Appeal today.

Counsel yesterday told the court the patient, Mrs. Velocette, had been admitted to the hospital in Vancouver on May 27 after alleged attempts at abortion by Mrs. McIntosh. On May 29 the "dying declaration" was taken. The patient passed away six weeks later.

Mr. Cruz contended the patient entertained hopes of recovery when the statement was taken. She was in a highly excited state as she answered questions put to her from which the statement was drawn up. The statement itself, he said, was not a verbatim report of what she had said, but a written declaration which she signed, while still in an excited state and after she had expressed hopes of recovery.

Mr. Cruz also contended the patient had not been warned of the use to which the "declaration" would be put. He said the clerk who had taken the statement was not aware, at the time, that it would be introduced into court at a trial for murder.

The only unsolicited statement made by the patient, he said, was "I'm not going to die, am I?" words she had addressed to the nurse attending her when the six people who had been present during the taking of the declaration, had left the room.

The patient's words and the nurse's reply that she "was given every chance," were proof of her hopes of recovery and the statement could not be considered a "dying declaration," counsel maintained.

The case is continuing before the full court.

Radio Move Has Island Support

Further support for the granting of a license for a high-powered community-owned radio broadcasting station in Victoria was received yesterday by George Morley, who will petition for a license here.

"I did not have one refusal to sign among all these people," said H. V. S. Page of Qualicum Beach, who circulated a petition for signatures in that district, in his letter to Mr. Morley. "Many of them expressed their keen interest in the proposal, saying that a Vancouver Island station is the logical one to carry Vancouver Island publicity, and that the island has not had a break from mainland stations to date. Others commented on the fact that Victoria is the only provincial capital in Canada with a station of less than 500 watts," the letter continued.

Mr. Morley expects to hear tomorrow from other island points, canvassed on the proposition.

The license would be granted for a community-owned station supported solely by public subscription, and presenting programmes free of any commercial announcements. Mr. Morley stated.

Theft of an electric fan motor from the Ogden Point worsted mill was reported to city police yesterday.

Favors Policing By Provincials

Councillor Lambrick, Saanich Candidate, Gives Stand

Councillor A. G. Lambrick, Ward Three, Saanich, who figured prominently in the Saanich police inquiry last year, and who is contesting the vacancy on the municipal police commission in the approaching elections, said he favored Saanich being taken over by Provincial Police, during an address to ratepayers of Ward Four in Marigold Hall yesterday evening.

The three ward council candidates, George Austin, W. N. Goldie and John Shelley and William Tomes, seeking re-election to the school board, were also heard.

Criticisms of the municipal force, advanced by Councillor Lambrick, were supported by some members of the audience, but the meeting was not generally agreed on the advisability of having the provincial force take over.

Mr. Lambrick said if he were elected to the commission and the plebiscite on the police question was turned down he would work towards thorough reorganization of the municipal department.

The trio of council candidates pledged themselves to economic administration with a minimum of waste expenditure. While all agreed—sidewalks and street lights were an urgent need in the ward they were not prepared to make promises until elected.

Mr. Austin and Mr. Goldie spoke generally, saying they would announce their platforms at the election meeting next week. Mr. Shelley said he proposed investigation of the administration of various departments.

A review of the school year was presented by Trustee William Tomes.

Badges worn by G-men and other government agents are not thrown away when worn or obsolete, but are melted for the metal they contain.

OUT OUR WAY

Art War Rages On Cow's Ribs

Thomas H. Benton, Painter in Missouri, Defends Skinny Creature in Mural

Associated Press
Kansas City, Jan. 13.—Missouri's art war centred today on Dolly, a red dairy cow, and unruffled Thomas Hart Benton, the muralist, who mixes his paints with egg yokes.

Patriotic critics said the ribs on Dolly, a figure in Benton's recently completed mural in the State Capitol lounge at Jefferson City, were "entirely too, skinny for any—Missouri cow."

Said Benton, a leading United States "realist":

"Any real farmer knows a milk cow doesn't take on fat. I haven't heard a single dirt farmer object to the way she's painted—only gentlemen farmers who never milked a cow."

He used the yokes of thirty-five dozen eggs to give the paints more lasting qualities.

His first commission from his native state—the Legislature appropriated $16,000 for the mural—evoked praise and criticism, all of it intense, from the Lome folks.

HAS FREE HAND

The forty-seven-year-old artist, centre of numerous past art controversies, was given free rein by the legislators to paint the "social history of Missouri."

The result: Scenes showing Jesse James robbing a bank; brewery workers gulping down beer; a mother at county political rally; a negro baby, negro slaves being beaten by an overseer; the murder in the raucous "Frankie and Johnnie" bar-room ballad; and stockyard butchers slaying a steer—near the left ear of cigarette-puffing T. J. (Tom) Pen-dergast, Democratic political leader.

"Even then," they declared, "the city was in a terrible condition. The hospital was overflowing with wounded. Typhoid had broken out. Both fighters and non-fighters were stricken."

A city of unending siege since the start of the civil war nearly six months ago, Oviedo was described by the travelers as reduced to a shambles. Thousands of non-combatants, preferring to face continuous bombardment from government guns and planes, remained in the city.

Armed men stood guard over the water supply day and night, the travelers said. Each non-fighter was limited to a pint of water a day.

Insurgent troops near Leon, fifty-five miles to the southeast, were bringing up field guns from the Somosierra in an attempt to smash through government lines and rescue the newest heroes of insurgent Spain.

Throughout the northwest the little band of men in Oviedo were hailed as defenders of "second Alcazar." By order of General Francisco, Fascist commander in chief, each has been chosen for valor.

Friday evening next the Royal Boy Scout troop will be presented at a Union Jack and will give a demonstration of scouting test work in St. Michael's Church at 7:30 o'clock. Those interested are invited to attend. A Junior St. John Ambulance Brigade is in progress now and the troop members will be ready for examination shortly.

VANCOUVER IN SHUTOUT WIN

Lions Blank Oakland Clippers 2 to 0 in Coast Hockey League Clash

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Vancouver Lions were only four points behind the pace-setting Portland Buckaroos in the Pacific Coast Hockey League standings today as a result of their 2 to 0 win over the cellar-dwelling Oakland Clippers here last night.

Percy Jackson's smart net minding, mixed with an unassisted goal by Walt Creasy in the second period and a lucky backhander from Lude Palm's stick in the first, were the chief factors in the Lions' victory.

Jackson's spectacular work around the Vancouver net during the second canto when the Clippers sped their fastest, robbed the Oaks of several seemingly sure markers.

Lude Palm opened the scoring twelve minutes through the first period, flipping in a twenty-foot-high backhander that bounced into the southerners' net off their own player, Conny King. Oakland had stopped the original Lion rush and were retaliating when Palm snatched the puck inside the blue line.

Walt Creasy, Vancouver rear guard, put the game on ice for the Lions seventeen minutes through the second period when he took the rubber at his own blue line, feinted the Clipper defence and crossed Timmins. Oakland netminder by drawing his shot to the far side of the net.

Canadian Press
London, Jan. 13.—The Saturday Review, one of the oldest and in its heyday perhaps the most influential of London Conservative weeklies, but which in recent years came under the dominance of the late Lady Houston, today announced "the dictatorship is over and we return to constitutional government."

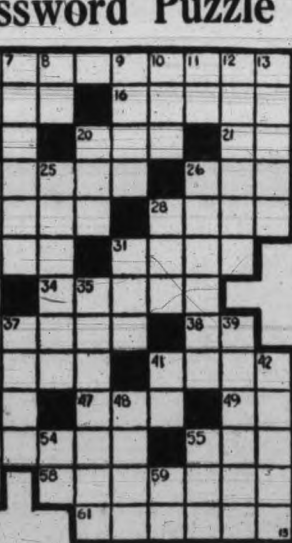

Lady Houston reduced the price of the periodical from sixpence to two pence (from twelve cents to four cents), and used it mainly as a whip-lash for Prime Minister Baldwin and Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, Lord President of the Council.

The journal printed, distributes so vehement that some large news agents declined to circulate it, and consequently an independent street corner sale was organized.

In recent years, the weekly review field generally has diminished considerably.

From a "listening" test of spoken language in an auditorium, it appeared that words ending in consonants are more apt to be misunderstood or not heard at all than are words ending in vowels.

"ZIEGFELD" AT THE ATLAS

Though the new M-G-M picture, "The Great Ziegfeld," opening today at the Atlas Theatre, is absolutely faithful to the spirit of Ziegfeld, the author, William Anthony McGuire, places his emphasis wisely on the traditional Ziegfeld, combining the real man with the fabulous one. The resultant figure is one of the most fascinating heroes—a motion picture could boast.

It seems that Gracie has an instinct and to test it, Mary Boland, a crackpot faddist, and Etienne Girardot, who plays the role of her father, take over the fashionable but bankrupt hotel where Jack Benny is boss.

I HAVE BEEN READING a most delightful and inspiring little book that is called "The Birthright of Babyhood," and what special and unalienable privilege to which every human being is entitled do you think it champions?

The right to be taught to love to read, and the author tells mothers just how they can do it and lead Junior gently and insistently up from Mother Goose to Frost. Heretofore, we have been by way of looking upon bookishness as an individual idiosyncrasy, something that was as purely a matter of taste as caviar or tabasco in your soup. You were crazy about books if you liked 'em and you loathed 'em if you didn't, and that was all there was to it. Those of us who found our chief solace in life in reading pitied those who were shut out from it, but we never thought of them as underprivileged people who had been deprived of their constitutional right to one of the greatest of all sources of deep and abiding happiness.

Yes, this is true. Every child cannot only be taught how to read, but also what is far more important: to love to read. If this is not done he has been defrauded of a birthright that is far more valuable than any lands and gold. He has been cheated out of a broad and full life and made to live in a narrow one. He has been denied a pleasure that never palls and of which he never tires and which he can enjoy under any circumstances. Between the man who loves to read and who has all literature for his heritage and the man who has only the headlines in the newspaper and the comic strip, is the difference between the multimillionaire and the pauper.

We cannot possibly enumerate all the blessings that a love of reading bestows upon us, but let us consider only a few of them: It is the ever-ready and at hand panacea for what ails us. Are we sick and miserable, too nervous and weary to endure human companionship? We can turn to our old and well-beloved friends in books, whom we can shut up when we have had enough of them without apology and without fear of giving offence. Are we harassed and worried about our affairs? Are we gloomy and distraught? We can pick up a magazine and read a gay story that will turn our gloom into laughter, or we can forget our own troubles by reading in the morning paper of some tragedy so great and overwhelming that it leaves us humbly thanking God for our luck, and ashamed of having whined over our petty misfortunes.

If we love to read we are saved from the curse of loneliness that devastates half of humanity. We can never lack for company, for they are there on the shelves waiting to be asked to spend the evening with us. There are the sages, to teach us wisdom. There are the poets to sing to us. There are the wits to make us laugh. There are the spinners of tales to keep us entranced with their stories of high adventure.

You don't have to put up an evening listening to dreary bores tell over the dull stories of a hundred times or more, or have your ears wearied with petty gossip and backbiting. Nor do you have to yawn behind your hand while Mr. A. discourses about how many miles he can make on a gallon of gas in his new car, or Mrs. B. recite all the infantile bonnets of Little Johnny, when you can spend it with the immortals.

You don't have to leave your comfortable chair and warm hearth to hunt up pleasure in the long hours of our sleepless nights. It is at your hand in a new book or a fresh magazine. The people who spend their time and money going to see pointless plays and silly movies and other people as uninteresting as themselves, who wander from night club to night club and every place that purveys alleged amusement, are the people who have never learned to love to read.

The love of reading is the one comfort to us in our grief. It puts glamour into the long hours of our sleepless nights. It lets us live a vicarious life, in which we are great lovers and handsome sheikhs and beautiful maidens instead of the commonplace individuals we are, and in our rocking chairs brings us all the thrill and romance of travel in far places.

The love of reading is the greatest safeguard that young people can have. It keeps them at home at night. It forms their characters on high ideals. It fires their ambitions and does more to keep them in the straight and narrow path than all the moralists and preachers.

So great and manifold being the blessings it brings, it is indeed the birthright of every child to be taught to learn to love to read.

DOROTHY DIX.

The Story of China

VIII-MANCHUS AND "PIGTAILS"

A year or two ago, I asked a man who draws pictures for a daily picture strip why he was putting down the "Ta" or "pig-tails" on the Chinese characters in his story.

"I know they don't have pig-tails anymore," he replied, "but that's a way to show they are Chinamen."

being called a prince, but the real power went to the Manchus. They were called the "Ta" or "Great Pure" dynasty. In the years which followed, there were rebellions against the Manchus, but all were put down. Different Chinese leaders, claimed the right to the throne, and because the Chinese did not work together the men from Manchuria were able to make their power firm.

The Manchus made many Chinese angry when they ordered all men in China to shave their heads in front, and at the same time to allow the hair in the back to grow long. When the hair reached down some distance, it was braided into a queue or pig-tail. This law was made to force the Chinese to show their "loyalty" to the new line of kings.

As time went on, the custom of wearing pig-tails grew popular. The people forgot that Manchu power had been forced on them. Even Chinamen who went to far countries to carry on the laundry business kept their pig-tails. Perhaps they were afraid they never could go home without them, but at least they did keep them, and seemed not to mind.

Then came a revolt—a quarter of a century ago. The last of the Manchu emperors lost his throne. Laws were passed to bring an end to the pig-tails. Some Chinese were glad to cut them off; but others were worried. "What if the Manchus should get back into power?" they asked.

In certain cities, soldiers were stationed in different places. When they saw a man with a pigtail, they ordered him to halt. Then, with big shears, they cut off his queue. Millions of pig-tails were lost, and a great deal of the hair went into the hair-net industry, to give women in other lands "nets" to hold their hair in place.

Meanwhile, a Chinese general named Wu had gone to the north with an army to fight against the Manchu Tartars. A message was brought to him telling of the capture of Peking. Then he made peace with the Manchus and entered into a plan, or plot, to join them and go south to drive the rebels out of Peking.

The plan was successful, and the Chinese rebels were driven away. The Manchus, however, decided to stay in Peking and make themselves at home. General Wu, was given the honor of

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

DANCERS SAIL TO THE ORIENT

Ms. Hikawa Maru Puts to Sea Today With Interesting Group of Travelers

With world tourists, business travelers and a ballet, consisting of Spanish, French and Madagascan dancers, the Japanese motorship Hikawa Maru, Capt. T. Takahata, will be off Victoria late this afternoon on her way to Japan, from Vancouver and Seattle.

She will come into Brochle Ledge to drop her pilot and then head towards Race Rocks on her way to the open ocean for the eleven-day voyage across the North Pacific to Yokohama. Aboard the vessel are 100 first and tourist and seventy third-class travelers.

The dancers, known as the Ballet Japonais de Juan Martinez, reached Seattle yesterday after a tour of Mexico. The American team of Burt Hugo and Jacqueline Wright also boarded the vessel in Seattle.

The dancers will appear in the leading cities of the Orient—Tokyo, Shanghai, Hongkong and Manila, and then may continue to Singapore, India and Europe.

Hermann Krupp, president of the Seattle Fur Company, is another passenger aboard the Hikawa Maru. Edward D. McKay, president and manager of the Seattle Merchandising Corporation, is starting his fourteenth voyage to the Far East.

J. J. Coats, a tour conductor, is heading a party of six world travelers, who traveled from their homes in California to join the Hikawa Maru.

Vancouver Shipping

Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Repair and overhaul work on Ms. Noumea, now at Burrard Drydock Co. North Vancouver, will be completed in a few days. Considerable repair work was done to the vessel's bottom, damaged when she stranded on a coral reef in South Seas some time ago.

St. Cruiser of the Pacific Navigation Co. has been taken from the Howe Sound run for an indefinite period to undergo engineering reconditioning, company officials announced today. She was formerly the private yacht of the late Capt. J. W. Troup of Victoria and before that a mission craft.

Towing of log booms and lumber scows and work on the new Fraser River bridge was slowed up by floating ice yesterday, but the steel tug Stormer kept the river channels open to deep-sea vessels.

Ms. Hindanger was discharging 7,400 tons of South American corn here yesterday. She will load 1,500 tons wheat and about 8,000 boxes of apples outward.

Eight Killed In Railroad Mishap

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Jan. 13.—A freight locomotive backing up in the darkness on the Mojave Desert ran over a section crew, killing eight men. The Union Pacific Railroad said today.

The accident occurred outside Brant, a small town on the main line between five miles west of Las Vegas, Nevada.

The crew had been called out at 3 a.m. to clear snow from the tracks, ten miles west of Brant.

Former Secretary Of C.P.R. Is Dead

Montreal, January 13.—Ernest Alexander, retired secretary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, died at his home here yesterday evening. He was in his seventy-fifth year. He retired a year ago after serving the company for forty-three years.

His career with the Canadian Pacific commenced in 1893, when he became private secretary to Sir William Van Horne, then president of the company. He served in this capacity until 1899 when he became chief clerk in the office of Lord Shugrue. From 1908 until 1912, he was assistant secretary. He became assistant secretary in 1912, and continued in that capacity until 1917 when he became secretary of the company.

Mr. Alexander retired from active service on December 31, 1935. He is survived by one son, E. Douglas Alexander, of Vancouver, by four brothers, Sir Douglas Alexander, New York, and S. H. H. S. and A. G. Alexander, Hamilton, Ont. and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Gillespie, Exeter, N.H., and Mrs. George Gillespie, London, Ont.

Explanation For "Caddy"

Expert in California Says Sea Serpent Is King-of-the-Herring

Canadian Press
La Jolla, Calif., Jan. 13.—An explanation for Cadborosaurus, the cavorting sea serpent of British Columbia, and all other sea serpents, was put forward today by Percy Barnhart, curator of the biological collection at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography here. He claims the sea serpents are nothing more than common king-herring.

The king-herring, scientifically known as Regalecus Russell, Regalecus Glesne, or Trachipterus Imae, is a member of the family Regalecidae, which is popularly known as the king-of-the-herrings.

It is a long, ribbon-like fish that lives in the deep sea. The king-herring seldom approaches the shore, although some specimens have been cast up on the beaches by submarine disturbances. Such specimens have been captured at Catalina Island and at Newport Beach.

The body of the king-herring is very slender and of great size, sometimes reaching a length of twenty or thirty feet. Its sinuous, snake-like motion while swimming makes it an excellent double for the traditional sea serpent, as does its head, which is adorned by a bony crest. The body is fragile, resembling jelly, and its bones are very light and thin.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Jan. 13.—Cadborosaurus, British Columbia's roving sea monster, may be a common king-herring—but Dr. W. A. Clements of the Dominion Biological Station at Departure Bay, B.C., does not think so.

From a scientific viewpoint, Dr. Clements is dubious. Cadborosaurus is "something new," but he disagreed today with the king-herring explanation made by Percy Barnhart, curator of the biological collection at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, La Jolla, Calif.

"I've never seen 'Caddy,' but any descriptions I've heard or read would not 'click' with the 'king-herring,'" Dr. Clements said. "Our variety has always been described as a large animal, not at all snake-like."

"Besides, I don't think Victoria would accept Mr. Barnhart's suggestion," he chuckled.

Dr. Clements, however, said he thought Cadborosaurus might easily be a school of sea-lions. Such an explanation would fit in with descriptions supplied by roughly 250 persons who have seen "Caddy" since the "monster" was sighted off Cadboro Bay, Victoria, first, several years ago. The creature has varied in length, according to observers, from ninety

THIRTY-TWO LIVES LOST

New Vessel Breaks in Two During Terrific Gale Off Coast of Scotland

Associated Press
Aberdeen, Scotland, Jan. 13.—Thirty-two persons were believed drowned after the Finnish motor vessel Joanna Thorndyke struck a reef and broke in two five miles off the northeast coast of Scotland yesterday.

The captain sent twenty-two men, two women and two children into the raging sea in one lifeboat and then abandoned the vessel, with the remaining thirteen members of the crew in another craft.

Eight occupants of the skipper's boat made shore, exhausted after their craft was dashed to pieces on the rocks, but the captain was believed drowned.

Beyond occasional reports of bodies being washed ashore, there was no word of the twenty-six in the first boat and the remaining five in the skipper's boat.

A terrific gale put the vessel's wireless out of commission, survivors said. The Joanna Thorndyke, a new vessel of 3,223 tons, was bound for Gothenburg, Sweden.

Around the Docks

Ogden Point Busy With Lumber Ships—Estevan Prepares for Trip Around Island—Albertolite Goes to Drydock—Empress of Asia to Depart Next Tuesday—Abandoned Boat Seen Drifting—Empress of Canada in Drydock at Hongkong

The Ogden Point piers continue busy, with ships arriving for parcels of Vancouver Island lumber and clearing for the United Kingdom.

The Kinross arrived overnight and will take 500,000 feet for the United Kingdom, before proceeding to Port Alberni to complete.

The Beljeanne, which is stowing 1,000,000 feet, will get away this evening to Port Alberni.

The Ms. Pacific Enterprise is loading about 800,000 feet, and will leave port tomorrow.

Henry King, whose firm is handling these ships, returned from Cowichan Bay early this morning after making the freighter Cresdene ready for sea. She took 1,000,000 feet at the upland port.

Mr. King drove over the Malahat in a driving snowstorm, taking two and a quarter hours. There was snow and snow-fog, he said, and visibility was nil.

ALASKA SAILINGS
Sailing of the Canadian Pacific Princess Norah from Vancouver to northern British Columbia and Alaska ports has been changed from January 22 to January 18. It was announced this morning. The new schedule calls for another sailing of the north from Vancouver January 28. There will also be two northern sailings in January.

NOW IN DRYDOCK
The Imperial Oil Company's tanker Albertolite, which suffered damage to her steering apparatus in a west coast storm last week, is now in the Dominion Government drydock in Equimait harbor. She was floated in Monday morning and will come out tomorrow. Repairs will take another week to complete, it was announced this morning by Yarrow's Limited. The Albertolite is the first ship to use the government basin this year.

GOING TO HAWAII
When she sails from Victoria next Tuesday, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia will go to Honolulu on her way across the Pacific to ports in Japan, China and the Philippine Islands. She will take out a capacity list of passengers and heavy mails.

The next Empress arrival in Victoria will not be until February 14, when the Empress of Canada, now in drydock in Hongkong for annual overhaul, makes port. The Empress of Russia will return February 27 and the Empress of Japan March 13.

BOAT ADRIFT
A partly submerged boat, twenty-eight feet in length and bearing the name Nomad was sighted drifting off Capt. St. James, southernmost point of the Queen Charlotte Islands by the U.S.S. Eagle, Cmdr. W. R. Wilby, local agent for the Department of Transport, was advised yesterday evening.

GOING TO ALASKA
Over 250 passengers will sail from Seattle this evening for Alaska aboard two vessels, the General W. C. Gorgas and the North Star. Both will also take heavy cargoes and will go to southwestern Alaska ports.

PREPARES FOR TRIP

Stores and equipment are now going aboard the Dominion Government's lighthouse tender Estevan at the government wharf near the John Street Bridge, preparatory to her departure for a trip around Vancouver Island, commencing next Monday.

The vessel will go up the east coast and return to Victoria in about a month, via the west coast, visiting numerous lights and other aids to navigation.
